MUCH BLOODSHED IN MEXICO REPORTED

POLICE PATROL FINDS LAST CAMP OF PROSPECTORS

B.C. Police Patrol Makes 800-Mile Journey Through Snow Into Cassiar

Last Camp of U.S. Prospectors, McClair and Saunders, Found at Brothers Lake

An epic of life in the northlands is contained in a brief formal report of a Provincial Police constable to the B.C. Headquarters of the force here to-day, relating to an 800-mile trip through snow and mountain torrents in search of two missing prospectors.

Constable C. D. Muirhead, of the Provincial Police post at Prince George, was in charge of the patrol. His sole companion for the greater part of the arduous journey was Constable Fenton of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The patrol set out from Prince George on May 18 and broke trail 400 miles into the wilds of the Cassiar district, reaching their base in return on July 28.

In that time the two men faced untold hardships, being forced to shoot their pack animals and trudge through deep snow in a land where few white men have trod. They built rafts and shot rapids over the swollen streams dividing the terrain into innumerable inland islands, and continued on and on until their quest was done. Once their food ran out and for hours together they trudged forward through the snow with the pangs of hunger adding to the hardships of the way.

At the very outset of the hazardous journey Constable Muirhead sprained his ankle. His companion, with the aid of Indians, carried him to shelter, but next day he proceeded though the sprained member was swollen and progress forward was only possible with a stick.

PROSPECTORS LOST

The patrol, searching for traces of McClair and Saunders, two United States prospectors who failed to return from a whole year in the wilds of the northlands, beat a wide trail through the country, following a cross country beat that connected up the scattered outposts of civilization on the backwoods frontier.

From Prince George they passed in turn through Finlay Forks, Fort Grahame, Wrede Creek, Sustut Lake, Thutade Lake, Tatlatui Lake to Brothers Lake, where they came on the end of their trail. For weary miles they stumbled over the snow, forcing the pack animals until Indian guides grew discouraged and cut the animals adrift in the night. The officers shot the remaining pack horse left to them and continued on foot with what little food they had left.

GREETING FOR KING IN TERMINAL CITY

Liberal Leader is Scheduled to Arrive in Vancouver at 7.35 a.m. To-morrow

Vancouver, Aug. 11.—Arrangements for the meeting and reception here of Right Hon. Mackenzie King, Federal Liberal leader, have been completed in so far as the reception and actual place of meeting are concerned. The former Premier will arrive here to-morrow morning at 7.35 o'clock over the Canadian National Railway. He will be met at the depot by a welcoming committee headed by Hon. J. H., King, Hugh Fraser, E. McConnell, Dugald Donaghy, Brenton S. Brown, Fred Sterling and other prominent Liberals.

Mr. King will then proceed to the Vancouver Hotel to await the steamer sailing for Victoria at 10 a.m.

Returning to the city on Friday morning, the Liberal chieftain will again be met and given a public reception. In the afternoon he will go to New Westminster to address electors, and in the evening he will speak here.

Hon. J. H. King, who will arrive from Cranbrook this evening, will accompany Mr. King to Victoria, and will return with him Friday morning.

BULGAR BANDS OF RAIDERS TO BE BROKEN UP

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 11—The diplomatic representatives of Jugoslavia, Rumania and Greece to-day handed a collective note to the Bulgarian Foreign Minister here regarding the activities of bands of Bulgarian irregulars. The substance of the note was withheld, but it is known it is not in the nature of an ultimatum.

The note is understood to demand dissolution of organizations which Bulgaria's neighbors consider "irredentist" and demands that severe measures of repression be taken against the bands which have been making raids across the border a member of the British House of Commons, is at present a Summer resident in Maine. It is her first visit to the United States, her native land, in some years. The picture above, one of her latest, has just reached Victoria.

LADY ASTOR

JUMPS TO DEATH FROM SANITARIUM WINDOW IN NIGHT

Mrs. Muriel Birchfield, Inmate of Institution, Takes Own Life

Jumping from a window of the Resthaven Sanitarium last night, according to reports reaching Provincial Police headquarters, Mrs. Muriel Birchfield, an American inmate of the institution, was killed.

The police to-day had but meagre particulars of the affair.

An inquest is being held over the body of the late Mrs. Birchfield this afternoon at the B.C. Funeral Parlors.

Mrs. Birchfield is believed to have come here from Seattle to recuperate from a nervous ailment at the Resthaven Sanitarium.

Coroner E. C. Hart, with a jury empanelled, sat to consider the case at 4 o'clock to-day. It was obviously a suicide, the police declared.

Mrs. Birchfield's body was brought to Victoria and is now at the B.C. Funeral Parlors.

WARREN NOW JUDGE IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Former Premier Appointed to Bench of Supreme Court of the Island

St. Johns, Nfd., Aug. 11.—To-day's Gazette announces the appointment of Hon. W. R. Warren, formerly Prime Minister of Newfoundland, following the downfall of the Squires administration, and lately Independent member for the district of Fortune Bay, to the position of judge of the Supreme Court. He succeeds Mr. Justice Johnson, who has occupied a seat on the bench for practically a quarter of a century.

Mr. Warren was Minister of Justice in the Squires administration in 1923 and was instrumental in bringing the public affairs of the colony under the scrutiny of a royal commission presided over by Holtis Walker.

FRIENDLY NEUTRALITY

Failing in his attempt to form a party to contest a general election, Mr. Warren declined to accept a place in the Monroe lineup and went to his old district, Fortune Bay, as an Independent candidate, where he was returned by an overwhelming majority. His position in the House has been that of friendly neutrality to the Monroe Government and the retaining of that attitude when certain members were dismissed from the party this Spring and others seceded, played a large part in enabling the Government to retain the balance of power.

COBHAM IN SYDNEY

PLANE FLIES NEAR McKINLEY PEAK

Fairbanks, Alaska, Aug. 11. — Mount McKinley, Alaska, the highest peak in North America, was approached from the air for the first time yesterday when Miss F. Dickinson of Sparta, Wisconsin, in an aeroplane piloted by A. A. Bennett of Fairbanks, circled within a mile of its upper pinnacles. The plane approached the mountain at an altitude of 13,500 feet.

Mount McKinley is 20,300 feet high.

CLOUDBURSTS IN JUGOSLAVIA

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Aug. 11—Severe damage has been caused in various sections of Jugoslavia by cloudbursts. Railway communication was interrupted by washouts and the Vienna-Zagreb express was derailed near Loubiana, several passengers being injured.

AMBASSADOR IS RECALLED BY SPAIN

JUAN RIANO Y GAYANGOS

Spain's representative in the United States for more than twenty-five years, is to return to Madrid, having been recalled from his post by his Government.

Huge Audience Expected To Hear King at Arena Thursday

Preparations were completed to-day for the big Liberal rally in the Arena to-morrow night, when Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, ex-Premier of Canada, will be the chief speaker. Indications of a huge crowd caused the Liberal Association to arrange for special street car accommodation to convey the audience to and from the big rink building.

Mr. King will be accompanied by Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works in his former Cabinet, who also will speak. Premier Oliver, members of his Government and leading Liberals from all over Vancouver Island will be on the platform with Mr. King.

H. H. Shandley, president of the Liberal Association, will preside.

Convention to be Held Tuesday; Martin and Clearihue to Stand For Nomination

Victoria Liberals will meet in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium next Tuesday night to nominate a candidate to contest this seat in the Federal election of September 14. All Liberals will be welcomed at this gathering.

Two names, Carew Martin and Joseph Clearihue, will go before the convention, it was learned. Both these gentlemen have expressed their willingness to accept nomination and so far no other names have been mentioned as possible candidates.

Both Mr. Martin and Mr. Clearihue are well-known lawyers and have been associated with the Liberal Party for many years. Both also are returned soldiers with distinguished war records. Mr. Clearihue sat for one term in the Provincial Legislature as a Liberal Member for Victoria.

CONSERVATIVES PICNIC

Conservatives of Victoria are enjoying their annual picnic at the Willows Beach to-day. Hon. S. F. Tolmie and C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate in Nanaimo, will be among the chief speakers at the function this evening.

CHILD KILLED BY COLORADO TORNADO

His Mother, Brother and Aunt Injured; House Demolished During Disturbance

Sterling Colo., Aug. 11.—A child was reported killed and three persons were seriously injured in a tornado which struck a mile east of Padroni, Colorado, last night.

The child, Alvin Zulpo, four, was killed when the wind demolished a house in which two families had taken refuge. His mother, brother and aunt were injured.

After the building had been reduced to splinters, the father crawled from the debris and carried the women and children to another house across the road. Returning, he secured the body of the child.

Skipping along a narrow path, the wind overturned several homes, wrecked automobiles and farm machinery, scattered haystacks and damaged crops. The home of A. J. Hubbard was lifted from the floor and members of the family were left sitting in the open.

ELEPHANTS IN B.C. MENACE PEOPLE

Indian Near Cranbrook Had Narrow Escape From Circus Animals at Large

Cranbrook, Aug. 11—An aeroplane which is en route here from Wichita, Kansas, will be used in the search for three circus elephants which have been wandering in the densely wooded and mountainous country around Cranbrook since last Sunday.

Carrying an expert animal trainer, the aeroplane is expected to arrive here late to-day and the search will probably commence by plane to-morrow. Scores of men have been on the trail of the elephants in an effort to capture the animals and searchers returning here state the animals have separated and are in an ugly mood.

A report received in Cranbrook tells how an elephant attacked an Indian riding through the heavily wooded country some miles from here to-day. Without warning the elephant plunged from the dense underbrush. The Indian was thrown from his horse for a short distance and then turned and went into the brush.

The three elephants, frightened by a barking dog, broke away from the Sells-Floto Circus in Cranbrook. They were among eleven elephants which stampeded from that traveling show in Edmonton a week and a half ago and caused great excitement in part of the city until all were rounded up some hours afterward.

The three missing elephants are valued at from $15,000 to $20,000 each.

NEW YORK STOCK PRICES DEPRESSED

Leading Industrial Issues Attacked To-day by Bears, as They Were Yesterday

New York, Aug. 11.—Stock prices turned reactionary in the final hour of trading here to-day after an early period of strength. Bear traders, following the tactics which proved successful yesterday, launched a late selling attack against pivotal industrial issues, such as United States Steel, General Motors and DuPont, all of which were driven several points below yesterday's closing prices.

MAN INJURED BY EXPLOSION OF SODA TANK

Courtenay, Aug. 11.—While charging with gas a charging tank for soda water fountains at the Gold Star Bottling Works yesterday afternoon Harold Watkinson was seriously injured by an explosion of the tank. The explosion blew the tank into twisted fragments and wrapped them so tightly round the legs and body of Watkinson that it took four men to pry it off him. He has a fractured leg, severe cuts and internal injuries. A boy who was assisting him was blown out of the building but was not hurt.

GEORGE WILKINSON, MINES INSPECTOR, PASSES SUDDENLY

Death Robs Government of Able Official and Mineral Industry of Leading Figure

George Wilkinson, chief inspector of mines for British Columbia, died at the Jubilee Hospital at 9 a.m. to-day after a brief illness. Mr. Wilkinson was fifty years old, his sudden death occurring when he had appeared, up to a few days ago, to be in excellent health. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Ruby and Evelyn, three sons, George, John and Edward, all of Victoria, two brothers and two sisters, Rev. Robert Wilkinson of North Vancouver United Church and Thomas Wilkinson of Chase River, near Nanaimo Elizabeth Ann Wilkinson and Mrs. George Stephens of Chase River. The body is resting at McCall's Funeral Home. The funeral announcement will be made later.

Mr. Wilkinson was one of the ablest officials of the Provincial Mines Department, where his death caused the deepest regret. Mining men all over British Columbia who knew Mr. Wilkinson in his long association with the mineral industry were shocked at his untimely passing while apparently in the prime of a vigorous life.

AN ENGLISHMAN

The late Mr. Wilkinson was born at Greysouthend, England, on May 27, 1876. He came to this Province when a young man of twenty years of age, and found employment at Nanaimo in the coal mines, and through industry and ability advanced to the position of mines manager for the Western Fuel Company. His long connection with the coal

SEARCH MADE FOR MISSING SAILORS

Fate of 25 Whose Schooner Was Wrecked Near Sable Island Unknown

Halifax, Aug. 11. — Wireless messages from Sable Island this morning brought no news of a comforting nature regarding the fate of twenty-five men who were members of the Lunenburg fishing schooner Sylvia Mosher, found lying on her side Tuesday morning, a total wreck on north bar, off Sable Island.

Opinions among shipping authorities differ regarding the fate of the twenty-five-year-old skipper of the Sylvia Mosher, Captain J. Mosher, and his twenty-four companions. By some it is believed the vessel capsized and partly righted herself again, while others believe the crew launched several dories to take them away from the Mosher and that they will turn up safely on another vessel. Only six empty dories drifted ashore on Sable Island.

Series of Arrests Made in Dublin

Dublin, Aug. 11—Fiona Plunkett, daughter of Count Plunkett, well-known republican member of the Dail, was among a dozen Dublinites arrested yesterday on charges of theft of books and papers belonging to money lenders. They also were charged with the possession of arms and were remanded for a week.

The arrests arose out of a series of recent raids on city money lenders. One of those arrested was Rosena O'Doherty, who was charged with assisting in the formation of an illegal military organization.

Two messenger boys are among the accused.

INCREASES GUARDS AGAINST OPERATIONS OF LIQUOR SHIPS

Brig.-Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, Treasurer of the United States in charge of prohibition enforcement, has just returned to Washington after conferences with British officials in London at which an agreement was drawn up which it is expected will greatly add to the difficulties of rum runners in landing their liquor cargoes in the United States.

SMOKE OBSCURES METEOR SHOWERS

A dense pall of forest fire smoke obscured the heavens last night for those on the southern part of Vancouver Island who wished to see the brilliant spectacle of a meteor shower.

At the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain, a heavy blanket of smoke from fires across the Sound made observation impossible.

The peak of the display occurs to-night, when this planet enters fully into the meteor path, where a celestial swarm of relatively minute particles are trapped in the atmosphere of the earth and extinguished in a blaze of heat from the friction offered to their course.

Thursday and Friday nights, also, "shooting stars" may be seen radiating from the constellation of Perseus, to the northwest and northeast of the heavens as the night advances.

If the smoke pall continues as dense as in the last few days there is little chance of the display being seen locally. The shower of meteors, thought to be small particles of disintegrated comets, is visible twice a year, and once in every thirty-three years the display attains the brilliance of a veritable bombardment of aerial fireworks.

BOIVIN FUNERAL IN GRANBY, QUEBEC

Memory of Late Federal Ex-Minister Honored by Canadian Leaders To-day

Granby, Que., Aug. 11—Attended by the sorrowing relatives and representatives of the Governor-General, the late Parliament, political colleagues and the Quebec bar, the remains of Hon. George H. Boivin, ex-Minister of Customs, were brought to his birthplace this morning and after mass in the parish church, were committed to the grave, where the body will rest beside those of the father and mother of the late citizen.

Effort to Release Entombed Miners In Kentucky Pit

Salem, Ky., Aug. 11.—An intense air pervades the camp of rescue workers here to-day while crews work feverishly to reach their five entombed comrades in the Hudson Mine. The shaft in which the miners have been imprisoned since last Thursday, when a cave-in closed them underground, is almost clear and it will be a matter of hours until the fate of the victims is known.

All water was cleared from the shaft by 11 o'clock last night and this morning only the remaining muck stood between the volunteers and the prisoners.

BATTLE FOUGHT IN MEXICO AND EIGHTY KILLED

Head of Roman Catholic Church in Republic Informed by Archbishop of Michoacan Battle in That State in Which Fifty Killed Was Followed by Thirty Executions; Outgrowth of Dispute Between State and Church

Mexico City, Aug. 11.—Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, who has arrived here from Michoacan, has informed the Archbishop of Mexico that two Roman Catholic priests and between twenty-seven and thirty Roman Catholic citizens were executed by the military authorities on August 1 and 2 on a charge of heading an uprising growing out of the religious situation.

The archbishop reported that the disturbances occurred in three towns in the states of Michoacan and Guanajuato. A battle between soldiers and citizens lasted for a day in the town of Zahuayo, Michoacan.

The archbishop estimated that probably about fifty persons were killed in the battle.

The other two towns where disturbances occurred were Acambaro and Irapuato in the State of Guanajuato.

Mexico City, Aug. 11.—The controversy between the Mexican Government and the Roman Catholic Church over the putting into effect of the Government's religious regulations showed no signs of lessening to-day.

In a statement to the Associated Press the Mexican episcopate declared that if a situation should develop whereby Mexico would be faced with the prospect of an armed conflict with the United States or any other country, the Roman Catholic Church would be found absolutely loyal and support the Mexican Government.

The Roman Catholic Church's attitude in such an event, it was added, would be the same as its attitude in the World War, in which the Catholics of every country were loyal to their governments.

MANY RUMORS

Neither the episcopate, the Government nor the newspapers have received any information that priests have been killed anywhere in the State of Michoacan. Mexico City constantly is filled with rumors of all sorts of bloody disasters in various parts of Mexico. Most such reports have proved completely unfounded.

The newspapers here print reports that three citizens were summarily executed after a courtmartial at Acamboro. They were charged with having led a mob which recently killed two Government engineers because they thought the engineers were Government agents in the religious situation.

VATICAN STATEMENT

Rome, Aug. 11.—In behalf of the Holy See, the Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, says that so long as the Mexican Government's "persecutive religious law remains in effect no negotiations are possible between the civil and ecclesiastical authorities."

"From the Holy Father to the last of the faithful," it adds, "the entire Catholic Church will trust to the invincible arm of prayer as all its force and all its hope."

The Vatican newspaper devoted a three-column article in last evening's edition to an analysis of Mexico's religious law and points out to the Mexican Foreign Minister "the true cause of the present disturbance."

TRAFFIC STARTS ON NEW HIGHWAY

Travel Allowed on Part of Cariboo Road For First Time To-day

Plan Completion of Project Next Winter; Through Traffic to Start in September

Motor traffic started to move over part of the new Cariboo Road from Vancouver eastward to-day. Only portions of the road will be put into general use now but after September 3 it will be possible to drive from the coast to the interior, it was announced at the Public Works Department.

A statement given out by Hon. W. H. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, this morning explained arrangements which have been made by his department to accommodate motor travel and to complete the road next Winter. The minister said he had instructed officials of his department to make a careful inspection of the road project this week to determine exactly when it would be finished and when traffic could be accommodated. After making this inspection Patrick Philip, Deputy Minister, reported that travel could proceed comfortably and safely from Vancouver to Nine-Mile Bluff, some five miles north of Boston Bar, to-day. This section of the highway is in splendid condition, Mr. Philip reported.

MUST SHIP CARS

Drivers who wish to proceed to the interior can drive as far as Boston Bar and from that point they can conveniently ship their cars by rail to Lytton, a distance of twenty-eight miles. From Lytton roads radiate fanwise across the Province, offering travelers a variety of overland routes.

Mr. Philip has reported, Dr. Sutherland added, that it will be absolutely impossible to allow traffic through on the highway from Nine-Mile Basin to Lytton before September 3 at the earliest. Even then several sections of the old Cariboo Wagon Road will have to be used. Motorists are warned that the old road in many sections is narrow and tortuous and are urged to use every precaution when driving there. Public Works Department officials ask that drivers be particularly careful when passing other cars to avoid accidents.

TO COMPLETE WORK

Portions of the new highway from Nine-Mile Basin to Lytton will not be in first-class shape this year, Dr. Sutherland said. During the Winter, however, they will be put into the same condition as other portions of the highway.

Opening of the road this year has been ordered to accommodate many motorists who have come to British Columbia simply to travel the new scenic highway, the minister said. The road will be closed on November 1, he added, to permit its completion before it is reopened early next year. From September 3 to November 1 all work will have to stop to permit travel.

FOREST FIRES OUT OF CONTROL

Bellingham, Wash., Aug. 11.—Forest fires on Bacon Creek and Big Beaver Creek in the Mount Baker National Forest continued out of control to-day. The loss is estimated at 50,000 acres of fine reserve timber, with $1,000 a day as the cost of combating the fires

TEN IN SIBERIA ARE SENTENCED TO DEATH

Desperadoes Convicted of Having Killed Whole Families in Their Robberies

Tyumen, Siberia, Aug. 11. — Ten desperadoes were sentenced to death here to-day for the murder of more than 100 victims. Chief among those condemned is the notorious woman Ekaterina Pishlanova, wife of the leader of the gang, who himself was known to the intimidated peasants as the "Jack-the-Ripper" of the Ural Mountains.

The woman was accused of killing her victims with an axe.

The robbers had been organized into a strong band of several score, with rigid rules, the slightest infraction of which meant death. For two years the district had been terrorized by the criminals, who are accused of killing whole families. They attacked government warehouses strangled the guards and seized stores of vodka and textiles which they sold at great profit.

MAN AND WIFE IN SEATTLE FACE TRIAL

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Swisler Brought From Chicago on Liquor Charges

Seattle, Aug. 11—Lyle H. (Carl) Swisler, aviator and alleged aeroplane liquor smuggler, and his pretty wife, Florence Swisler, are in custody here to-day. They arrived in Seattle last night escorted by federal officers.

The Swislers were arrested in Chicago August 3, after they had fled half-way around the world rather than be tried on a series of indictments returned by the federal grand jury here. They are charged with violating the national prohibition act and the Harrison Narcotic Act.

They waived removal proceedings in Chicago and agreed to be returned to Seattle.

WERE IN HOLLAND

Before the trial date here last Summer the Swislers disappeared, leaving little clue as to their whereabouts. It was learned, though, that they had applied for passports, and C. L. Converse, a government operative, trailed them through the capitals of Europe to Amsterdam, Holland, where he met them. But it developed the offences were not extraditable from Holland, and Converse returned.

In Chicago Mrs. Swisler told reporters her husband was the victim of the narcotic habit, started by the administration of opiates by physicians when he was burned in a seaplane accident several years ago.

The Swislers formerly owned the Perry Hotel and some apartment houses in Seattle, as well as a palatial yacht and fleet of automobiles.

3,000 MESSAGES TO RADIO STATION

C.N.R. Broadcasting Centre in Vancouver Congratulated on Its First Birthday

Vancouver, Aug. 11. — Fittingly celebrating it first birthday, CNRV, the Canadian National Railways radio broadcasting station here, last evening was the recipient of more than 3,000 telegrams from listeners scattered from Alaska to San Diego, and far in the middle states as well as the three prairie provinces of Canada. So numerous were the congratulations that the prize drawing scheduled to take place was postponed till Friday evening, when the winners will be announced from the station.

During the course of a programme composed of the favorite among the artists who had contributed their services since the inception of the station, and which lasted till 2 a.m., A. R. McEwan, director of radio for the Canadian National Railways, gave a short address on the future of radio as a means of publicity.

"We have been proud of CNRV because it has earned an enviable record among owners of receiving sets. Not only in British Columbia and elsewhere in Canada, but beyond the boundaries of Canada, in the United States and the Isles of the Pacific," he said. "We had faith in the capabilities of the station, but it is necessary to have more than faith. You must have good works. These are a matter which directly concern the radio public and the listeners-in are the judge and jury. The verdict has been favorable, and from the start the station has been the recipient of many complimentary references from tens of thousands of individuals who have been pleased with the offerings sent out. It has been our ambition to satisfy the public, and I think that ambition has been realized."

ACCIDENTAL DEATH IS JURY'S VERDICT

A verdict of accidental death was brought in this morning by the coroner's jury sitting at the B.C. Funeral Parlor on Felice Donato, Italian mill worker, who was killed on Monday afternoon when a heavy-laden lumber carrier passed over his body. The jury added a rider to its verdict, recommending that a bell as well as a whistle be placed on such trucks.

Charles Reid, driver of the truck, did not see Donato, he told the coroner. He was only aware of the accident when fellow workmen hailed him and drew his attention to the fact that the truck had passed over Donato's body.

WOMAN GOVERNOR REFUSES TO RESIGN

Mrs. Miriam Ferguson Fights to Win Nomination in State of Texas

She Had Said She Would Retire if Primary Election Adverse

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 11—Her agreement that she would resign following the primary election, "if Dan Moody beats me by one vote," apparently forgotten, Mrs. Miriam (Ma) Ferguson to-day plunged into an intensive campaign aimed at winning the runoff primary, which is to be held within three weeks. The runoff was ordered when the official count showed Moody had failed to poll the required majority by 1,170 votes.

As the first move in her battle, Mrs. Ferguson's attorneys appeared before the state Democratic committee and preferred charges that Moody had accepted contributions to his campaign funds from other candidates, in violation of the Texas election laws. The attorneys also were said to have prevailed upon the committee to ignore Mrs. Ferguson's carrying out of her resignation agreement.

Both Mrs. Ferguson and Moody were certified for the runoff.

LORD BLYTH'S HOME IN ENGLAND BURNED

He Was Injured in Being Lowered From Window by His Young Son

London, Aug. 11 (Canadian Press Cable) — Lord Blyth's mansion, Blythwood, at Stanstead, Essex, was seriously damaged by fire this morning. The contents, including valuable pictures, were destroyed.

Lord Blyth, who is fifty-eight years of age, was being lowered from a window with a rope around his shoulders by his nephew, and heir, Hon. Rupert A. Blyth, twelve years of age, when the rope slipped and he fell. One of his ankles was injured.

His housekeeper, an elderly woman, gave the alarm. She was badly burned while running along a blazing corridor arousing inmates. The cook was injured while escaping from the flames. Five domestics escaped without injury.

Two dogs perished in the fire.

ROMANCE!

You often hear people refer to the "dear old days of romance"—to the time when knight-errants roamed the earth to do honor to a lady's blue eyes.

These folks say we are living in an age of realism!

An age of "realism" where the human voice is hurled across the world without wires; where the temperature of Mars is taken more than thirty millions of miles away; where tons of steel and people ride easily and safely through the air or under the sea!

An age of realism! Why, this is the most romantic of all ages!

The advertising columns of this paper are full of romance—of the romance of men who have devoted their lives to bringing new comforts, conveniences and pleasures for mankind.

Advertisements tell these stories, not with the romantic exaggeration of a jongleur, but with the calm, simple words of sincerity. Here is a firm that spent millions to develop a product that makes your baby comfortable. Here is a company that has labored fifty years to cut a single hour of toil from your day's work. Here is a man who has searched the Seven Seas to produce a new flavor for your dinner.

Romance—this age is full of it. Not just empty romance, but the true romance of achievement, of progress, of the betterment of mankind.

Advertisements tell you what the romance of business is doing for you. Read them.

ALBERTA CAPITAL VOTERS HEAR KING

Liberal Leader Addresses Edmonton Meeting in Country-wide Election Tour

Hon. Charles Stewart and Mayor Blatchford, Candidates, Also Speak

Edmonton, Aug. 11.—Rt. Hon. Mackenzie addressed a large audience here last night in the course of his coast-to-coast Federal general election campaign tour.

His next address will be made in Victoria, B.C., Thursday night.

OF EDUCATIONAL VALUE

Mr. King pointed out the unusual educational value of the situation during this election campaign. It was bringing before the people the problem of self-government as nothing had done in a life time.

Early last session, when Mr. King had not a seat in the Commons, Mr. Meighen had said the Government was without a head and had no right to carry on. But at the end of the session, when Mr. Meighen was Premier without a seat in the House, he had not maintained the same position.

The Liberal leader told of the last days of the Government, when from day to day no one could tell what was going to happen. Certain of the Progressives were leaving their own group and slipping over into the Tory camp, while certain Tory senators attempted to influence votes in the Commons. The open, above-board co-operation had broken down and a situation of intrigue had taken its place.

"I tried to keep the ship of state on an even keel, through a pretty rough sea," said Mr. King. "At the end of the session it was clear we were approaching rocks and shallows. Being responsible, it was my duty to tell the Governor-General it was impossible to guide the ship and that it should be brought to a standstill. In the forecastle men were beginning to mutiny whom I could not rely on and whom I knew no one else could rely on."

ELECTION NEEDED

For the honor and dignity of Parliament, it should have been closed to allow the people to return a new Parliament, said Mr. King. After three days of conferences with the Governor-General he had refused to grant dissolution and the Government had resigned.

Not for 100 years had a Governor-General refused a prime minister a dissolution.

Mr. King said he was only asking that both his Government as well as the opposition be allowed to go before the people.

"It was to avoid censure," challenged a gallery voice.

"There never was a vote of censure," replied Mr. King.

"Rot," returned the voice.

"If that is what you are calling the so-called vote of censure you are not far wrong," said Mr. King, who challenged his interrupter to explain the censure he referred to. There was no reply and the Liberal leader proceeded.

Of the last few days of the session Mr. King said not one Conservative had had the courage to stand up and say the existence of the Meighen Government was not fair or constitutional.

"Any man who supports a Prime Minister who usurped office by trying to put over a fake government, does not deserve to be returned," said Mr. King. "I say a man who will do that will do anything."

CUSTOMS INVESTIGATION

He told of Inspector Walter Duncan's customs investigation, his report and the discharge of J. E. A. Bisaillon. Mr. Boivin, who had spoken with Mr. King in Edmonton a year ago, had been made Minister of Customs in order to pursue the investigations into the department. Up to the time Bisaillon was dismissed the Conservative Party had not even known an investigation was proceeding. Surreptitiously, Hon. H. H. Stevens had been sent a copy of the detective's report and on it he based his charges, said Mr. King.

The unanimous report of the committee contained no censure of the Government and there was not even a minority report. The jury in the case was the committee and the jury's verdict was its unanimous finding.

"Then this gallant and brave gentleman from British Columbia moved an amendment censuring Mr. Boivin," said Mr. King. "It was to alter the very report to which he had been a party."

ONE-MAN MINISTRY

"When I tendered advice to the Governor-General I had been Prime Minister for four and a half years," said Mr. King. "I had the confidence of the House of Commons and I had the right to speak in the name of the House. When Mr. Meighen went to the Governor-General he went as the head of a Government consisting of himself alone, a Government declared by the House of Commons to be illegal. Do you see where that kind of thing is going to lead?"

The Liberal leader went over the features of the Robb budget.

"There is not a man or woman in this Dominion," he said, "who has not directly benefited by the reduction of taxation."

CANDIDATES SPOKE

Besides Mr. King, Hon. Charles Stewart, former Minister of the Interior, and Mayor Blatchford, Liberal candidate in Edmonton, spoke.

Mr. Blatchford criticized the Conservative senators for having rejected the old age pension measure, which would have been a great relief to municipalities of Western Canada during Winter months.

Mr. Stewart pointed out that during its years of office the Liberal Government had lifted from the shoulders of the people $114,000,000 of taxation. The Government's reductions of taxation upon farm machinery and automobiles had been bitterly opposed by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and his followers. At the same time, trade treaties with sister Dominions which had enlarged foreign markets had been attacked by the Tories. These treaties had helped to bring Canada's magnificent trade balance of $400,000,000.

FOR BENEFIT OF FEW

The old protectionist principle, still being preached by Mr. Meighen, was vicious in application, serving only a few at the expense of many, said Mr. Stewart.

"Now when Canada is over the top on the way to great prosperity it is very regrettable there should be any reversal of the policies which built up Canada," said the ex-Minister.

Already an order-in-council had been passed practically placing an embargo on imported fruit. It meant the consumers would pay and it would appear Mr. Meighen's threat of higher protection was real.

The Federal Government last session had stood ready to contribute $2 a ton to the Alberta coal movement to the East, but the matter had split on the rock of the Alberta and Ontario contributions. The whole matter was now before the Railway Commission.

"We have a couple of good friends on that board and I hope that before next Winter a rate will be established which will enable Alberta coal to be marketed in Ontario," he said.

Sterling, Colo., Aug. 11.—One child was reported killed and three persons were seriously injured in a tornado which struck a mile east of Padroni, Colorado, last night.

PRAIRIE POPULATION SHOWS AN INCREASE

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—An average increase of nearly five per cent. in the population of twenty Federal electoral districts in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, as compared with the 1921 figures, is shown by the quinquennial census of the three prairie provinces taken as of June 1. This announcement is made in a partial statement of the population issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The total population of these twenty electoral districts is given at 803,826, contrasted with 735,308 in 1921.

Further announcement of the census of thirty-four remaining electoral districts in those provinces will be made shortly.

MORE TEACHING OF B.C. HISTORY URGED

Mr. Justice Murphy Urges Change in School Programme

Vancouver, Aug. 11—Mr. Justice Murphy, at the conclusion of an address on the early history of British Columbia before the Vancouver Rotary Club yesterday appealed to the members to use all the influence they possessed to promote the teaching of the history of the Province in the schools.

"There is far too little history of a local type taught at present," said Mr. Justice Murphy. "It would be of far more value to the youth of the Province to learn local history than to learn the history of Rome and Greece."

Swedish-Austrian Arbitration Plan Stated in Treaty

Stockholm, Aug. 11.—An unlimited arbitration treaty, making war illegal under all circumstances, has been concluded between Sweden and Austria, the eighth in a series of a somewhat similar nature recently signed by the Swedish Government with various European neighbors. The previous ones were with Norway, Finland, Denmark, Poland, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Germany.

Among the most important items of business will be the consideration of the report of the temporary directors, the financial statement, constitution and by-laws.

BALDHEADED MEN GIVEN ENCOURAGEMENT

London, Aug. 11 (Canadian Press Cable)—Baldheaded men need never desire power, like Elisha of old, to bring swift retribution to those persons who deride their baldness now that Dr. Robert T. Gunther, fellow and late tutor of Magdalen College, Oxford University, and a number of other savants attending the annual gathering of the British Association for the Advancement of Science have approved of the theory that a lack of hair tends to the growth of the brain.

Dr. Gunther, in an address to the association last night, advanced the theory that a luxuriant growth of hair absorbed a large quantity of brain energy and many of the professors present expressed approval thereof, though by no means short of locks themselves.

Hairlessness among men, according to Dr. Gunther, began about the time man discovered fire, when the growing of an abundance of hair became a source of danger in handling fire. Then began the slow but inevitable triumph of the bald man, "for hairlessness became the outward and visible sign of a certain standard of intellect.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS IN UNITED STATES

Ballots Counted in Ohio, Alabama, Arkansas and Nebraska

New York, Aug. 11—A battle of ballots was waged yesterday in the states of Ohio, Alabama, Arkansas and Nebraska, it being a day of primary elections. From columns of mounting figures experts to-day sought to name the November candidates for offices ranging from United States senator and state governor down to county officials.

In Ohio, Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, endorsed by the Anti-Saloon League, to-day was leading the Republicans for governor and United States Senator F. B. Willis defeated seven opponents for the Republican senatorial nomination. United States Senator Pomerene defeated Miss Florence E. Allen, State Supreme Justice, for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. Governor A. V. Donahey defeated three Democratic opponents who sought to succeed him.

KLAN AN ISSUE

Repudiation of the national Ku Klux Klan organization by the Alabama organization was seen by some political observers in Alabama's Democratic primary. Hugo D. Black, candidate for the United States Senate endorsed by the Alabama Klan, was leading a field of five, in the Alabama gubernatorial race, B. Graves was leading a field of four.

Large urban centres gave Judge J. E. Martineau a fairly substantial lead over Governor T. J. Torral in the Arkansas Democratic gubernatorial fight. United States Senator Caraway was nominated without opposition.

METEOROLOGY AT BEGINNING OF EPOCH, DECLARES WILKINS

New York, Aug. 11—Weather men of the future may pursue their profession high above the normal cloud line.

Certain pioneer meteorologists believe the weather bureau of the years to come will not be in an office building but in a balloon, and that "soundings" thus made possible will result in accurate forecasting of atmospheric conditions for long periods in advance all over the world.

"So it will become possible to predict far in advance when a certain part of the world will be subject to drought and the consequent famine, disease and death can be avoided," said Capt. J. H. Wilkins, flying explorer of Australia, whose recent aeroplane expedition into the Arctic concerned itself largely with meteorological conditions.

"Also," he said, "the world path of storms will be mapped out long before they make themselves felt, and meteorology will be an exact science dealing in advance information which will make possible world-wide adjustment to weather conditions."

The charting of the air will also aid in solving the problem now feared by many who see in the lawless air cruising of a few years hence the cause of many crashes. The upper air will probably be found to be arranged in a number of "one-way streets" as well laid out as those of city traffic, says the expert.

Party Attempts to Climb Mt. Robson

Jasper, Alta., Aug. 11—Dr. W. A. Hickson of Montreal, with a party of six Alpinists, fresh from their recent triumphs in the Tonquin Valley section of Jasper National Park, are today on their way to Emperor, where they will make an attempt to climb Mount Robson, the second highest peak in Canada. They will establish a base camp on the side of Mount Robson above Emperor Falls just below Berg Lake. The camp will be equipped for a lengthy stay.

Duncan

Duncan, Aug. 10.—The regular meeting of the Duncan City Council was held on Monday evening, Mayor J. Islay Mutter presiding.

Practically only ordinary routine business was transacted. A request from a Chinaman to be allowed to make an addition to the building occupied by him, was refused.

Formal resignations from employees who are now with the Duncan Utilities Company, were accepted.

TENNIS

Another mixed foursome competition, arranged by Mrs. A. H. Peterson, and played on the Duncan links on Monday evening, proved most enjoyable, sixteen couples taking part.

A handicap was allowed on three hidden holes, Miss Tarlton and W. B. Harper returning the lowest score on these. Others taking part were: Mrs. Harper and P. Jaynes, Mrs. H. W. Dickie and H. R. Punnett, Mrs. F. Kerr and C. W. O'Neill, Miss M. Gibb and M. K. Macmillan, Mrs. F. H. Price and John Gibb, Mrs. A. H. Peterson and A. D. Drummond, Miss K. Powel and C. R. Drayton, Mrs. Wallis and W. L. B. Young, Miss Peterson and A. H. Peterson, Mrs. Coyne and K. F. Duncan; Mrs. W. B. Powel and H. F. Prevost, Mrs. Young and Ben Colk, Mrs. E. A. Price and Dr. Kerr, Mrs. E. W. Carr Hilton and W. WILL DO EVEN BETTER

STANDING OUT CLEARLY FROM THE mass of election campaign words which are now flooding the country is the important fact that thousands who used to pay income taxes now pay nothing owing to the King Government's action. A sixty-dollar charge on a $3,500 income was reduced to ten dollars, and so on all along the line. This is of great importance in itself, but it takes on new significance in view of Mr. Robb's recent promise of further reductions if the people will give the Liberal Party a renewal of authority to carry on its work.

The former Minister of Finance, of course, is encouraged to make his promise because he has many practical proofs of the success of the policies of the King Government. He was able to cut the income tax in such a substantial manner this year because nearly all trace of the depression in whose grip the late Administration found the country when it took office in 1921 had disappeared. In that time an adverse balance of trade with the rest of the world amounting to $30,000,000 has been converted into a favorable balance of more than $400,000,000. This will grow if the country shall be permitted to progress under the policies which have helped to produce this important economic transformation.

Mr. Robb knows whereof he speaks in this respect and that is the reason why he has no hesitation in promising further cuts in taxation. But if Mr. Meighen should be given the job of running the affairs of the country all hope of lower taxes will vanish. He and his party attacked the Robb budget in all its detail. They did their best to prevent relief from reaching the taxpayer. What possible hope, therefore, has that taxpayer of getting his load made lighter by a Government led by Mr. Meighen?

WHAT OF RUSSIA?

IT WOULD BE INTERESTING TO SEE what is going on behind the scenes in Russia. Various rumors that are reaching the outside world suggest that those in authority are falling out among themselves. Nor is there anything very surprising about this. It is the inevitable course of a revolution. France furnishes the parallel. Russia has gone through two of the stages. Kerensky the idealist, a moderate and weak, had his day and failed. Then came the extremists, the doctrinaires, in the form of Lenin and Trotzky. There followed a reign of terror, the elimination of everything thought to be in conflict with the form of government with which these men were experimenting.

The inevitable happened. These two soon discovered that many of their theories were unworkable in practice. But they were intelligent men, obviously sincere in their own beliefs, and they borrowed from the old and tried systems and adapted as much of their own as they could. To this departure may be traced the genesis of the present signs of trouble. The irreconcilables, then as now, demand the full programme of world revolution and the realization of their earlier dreams. This conflict gathered impetus when death removed Lenin. It may now be reaching its zenith. If the complete analogy of the French revolution is furnished, who will be Russia's Napoleon?

TRAFFICKING

PROBABLY AS THIS NEWSPAPER IS going to press Doctor Tolmie is telling the Conservative picnic party about the shocking alliance between the wicked Liberals and the shameless Progressives during the greater part of last session. The fact that the product of that alliance was lower taxation, the reduction of the duties on implements and motor cars, which the Doctor and his colleagues were unable to prevent, although they tried desperately to do so, made the accord between the two parties particularly objectionable. But it becomes an actual outrage to all decency in the Doctor's eyes when he recalls the many sleepless nights he and his confreres on the Conservative Board of Strategy spent trying to induce the Progressive fly to walk into the Tory parlor. This effort culminated on January 12 in the following unblushing offer to the Progressives in the House of Commons from Mr. Meighen through the Hon. Hugh Guthrie:

> I submit that no member of this House should look beyond the question in the resolution; but if we are tempted to go beyond it, if we are tempted to consider ulterior results, then let me say this in the presence of my leader and with his authority, that if this motion carries, if this government resigns, and if he (Mr. Meighen) is called upon to form a government in this House, he will undertake the task. He will undertake to carry on that government from session to session without dissolution, and he will do so just so long as he receives parliamentary support.
> HON. MEMBERS WHO FORM THE PROGRESSIVE GROUP IN THIS HOUSE WILL REALIZE THIS; THEIR POSITION WILL BE JUST AS STRONG UNDER A NEW ADMINISTRATION AS IT IS UNDER THE PRESENT ONE. THEY WILL OCCUPY THE SAME DOMINANT POSITION IN THE COUNCILS OF THIS HOUSE AS THEY DO TO-DAY, and if a new government were formed and legislation satisfactory to them introduced and proceeded with, there is no reason why such a government should not continue to the end of the parliamentary term. But the Progressives have this safety valve: Should legislation be introduced not acceptable to them, then on account of the peculiar position which they occupy, they would have the remedy in their own hands. Hansard—January 12, page 101.

Apparently Doctor Tolmie did not hear this brazen offer of Mr. Meighen to jettison the whole Tory cargo if the Progressives would only put him in office and keep him there; he probably was too busy with Bob Rogers trying to win over that little group from Alberta upon whose support at one time members of the Board of Strategy were betting. If it had succeeded what fragrant bouquets would have been handed out to the Progressives by the Doctor and his party. In that case the trafficking would have been entirely justifiable, patriotic and creditable.

ALMOST A RECORD

IN THE MONTH OF JULY THE FIRE DEpartment of the City of Victoria was called upon sixty-four times to deal with unwelcome flames in various parts of the community. The loss sustained from these fires was just a trifle over $500. Based upon the complete assessment value of the city's property of $70,000,000, and a population in the city proper of 40,000, the fire loss for the month was 1.5 cents per capita.

Two encouraging facts stand out from the foregoing statements. One is that in what has been so far the driest and hottest month of the present year the work of the Fire Department apparently has been about as efficient as it could be. The other is that, since the number of outbreaks was so small, the general public is learning the lesson which is taught from time to time in fire prevention campaigns.

In connection with property loss from fire, of course, the question of fire insurance rates is involved. The community which pays particular attention to this aspect of the question and keeps its fire loss down is the city which gets its rates lowered. Victoria already has succeeded in this respect in the past. The July record, therefore, will be noted with satisfaction. Fire insurance rates mean a good deal to commercial Victoria.

AN OLD QUESTION

SHOULD PERSONS AFTER HAVING become Ministers of the Crown, notwithstanding that they avail themselves of the practice by which they may remain directors of a family or private company, continue to be directors when they find out that that company is in contractual relations with the Government?

The principle involved in this question formed the subject of a lively and acrimonious debate in the British House of Commons recently. The controversy began with a Labor motion which was aimed at Mr. Neville Chamberlain, who, by the way, is a man of strict probity and against whom the charge of corruption would not be likely to succeed. Nevertheless, it does appear, as Sir John Simon pointed out, that a new question has arisen which must have critical attention sooner or later.

Most people will agree that Cabinet Ministers should not be in a position to influence business in any direction. Some of the facts mentioned in the debate seemed to justify the distinguished Liberal lawyer in urging Mr. Baldwin to give the subject impartial consideration after the personal matter then before the House had been cleared away.

In this country at the present time there are in the Cabinet of Mr. Meighen two Ministers who have direct interests in the motor car business. They may not sell the Government automobiles; but their views on the reduction of the import duties on them might persuade a high tariff administration to shape its fiscal policy in their interests.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THAT BOARD OF STRATEGY

From The Toronto Globe

It seems that every member of this Meighen Cabinet except Mr. Patenaude was—and is—a member of the Meighen Board of Strategy. Quite so. We thought, as soon as we saw the list, that the Cabinet was a typical Board of Strategy production.

THE GREAT MASTERS

From The Seattle Times

Almost every day one hears of another Great Master, purchased at a fabulous price, on its way from poor old Europe to our shores. By the same token ever fuller and louder grows the chorus of European lament for such proceeding.

Greece has long had a law forbidding exportation from Greece of works of ancient Hellenic artists, and that law has proved effective. Italy has long had a similar law forbidding exportation of ancient works, whether of Italian or Greek execution, and of Italian works of the Renaissance period. That law, too, has proved effective. There seems no reason why British law should not prove equally effective.

An important distinction, however, should be made. It is logical that the British Parliament should legislate against removal from Britain of works by Turner, Reynolds and other British artists. These are the most essentially British things in Britain and among the chief glories of the British nation. Their proper place is in Britain. On the other hand, a Rubens, a Rembrandt or a Valesquez would be as appropriately (or inappropriately) installed in a New York as in a London gallery. Masterpieces of art are national treasures, not to be lumped with millinery or tractors. It would be better if every work of art that has been expatriated should be returned to its country of origin.

"Money talks," of course, but it is possible to make it talk small in certain connections.

KNICKERBOCKERS

The term now used to refer to the common golf costume of both men and women originally applied to the wide breeches worn by the early settlers of the colony of New Amsterdam, later New York. Washington Irving popularized the term when he adopted the name of Diedrich Knickerbocker upon writing his "History of New York." Since then New York has been the Knickerbocker City and its people are known as "Knickerbockers."

Canadian Questions and Answers

ONTARIO HYDRO ELECTRIC COMMISSION

Q—What is the record of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission?

A—The record of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission for 1925 showed its operations were on the largest scale in its history, with a balance of $437,848 left after a transfer of $3,716,833 to the renewal fund. It distributed a load of 867,443 horse power, as against 769,952 in 1924. Two hundred and forty-three municipalities co-operate with the commission. The total investment of the public in the hydro undertaking is $276,720,073, $198,998,973 representing the commission's investment in power undertakings and hydro-electric radials, and $77,721,098 by municipalities.

PONTIAC

Q—Who was Pontiac?

A—Pontiac (about 1720-1769) was a North American Indian—an Ottawa chief born about 1720, probably on the Maumee River, Ohio. In 1746, when Detroit was attacked by northern tribes, he commanded the Indian warriors, who defended the place, and is said to have led the Ottawa and Chippewas when Braddock was defeated. Major Robert Rogers, sent to take possession of Detroit for the British met Pontiac in 1760. Pontiac objected to the territory being any further invaded, but consented to the surrender of Detroit after he had learned that in Canada the British had defeated the French. This Indian warrior is best known for the general uprising of Indians which he planned and which is known as the "Conspiracy of Pontiac." He was murdered by a Kaskaskia Indian at Cahokia, Illinois, in 1769. Pontiac ranks as one of the most remarkable Indians in North American history, remarkable alike for his power of organization, his strong mind and breadth of comprehension.

Pain Saves Lives

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING

Pain may be defined as a peculiar, a particular sensation occurring in an animal body. Sudduth says "Pain is a mental state, an element of consciousness, due to the perception of an injury to the body or to the sensual feelings."

It gives rise to hunger, satiety, nausea, thirst, physical or mental depression or exhilaration. It also produces the feeling of fatigue and exhaustion.

FOR PRESERVATION

Its opposite is pleasure which is also a mental state and represents a natural tendency of our energies to seek that which brings satisfaction. Both pain and pleasure are special sensations provided by nature for the preservation of the individual and the race.

Many interesting facts are disclosed when we begin to interpret pain. In general, there are two classes of pain. One is spoken of as objective, being caused by obvious injury, disease or deranged function. The other is subjective, having no perceptible organic basis for its presence. Due consideration must always be given to the mental state, to the degree of health of the sufferer and to the physical findings.

The pains of indigestion are caused by the use of improper food and the practice of hurried eating. Occasionally such pains are forebodings of more serious maladies.

NATURE PROTESTS

When proper food habits fail to relieve such pains promptly, skilled examination and treatment are necessary. Self drugging affords only temporary relief, and may lead to serious consequences.

Headaches are often protests against over-indulgence in food and drink. In some cases they may indicate a grave and serious condition—for example—brain tumor, optic nerve disease, pernicious anaemia and other diseases.

Even the pain of sunburn, as comparatively trivial as it may seem, is a warning against too sudden and prolonged exposure of the skin to strong sunlight.

mining industry made him one of the best posted men on all phases of the industry in the Province, and the experience then gained was of first importance when he took service in the employ of the Province, and was appointed to the position of chie finspector of mines on April 5, 1917, following the resignation of the then chief inspector, Thomas Graham, who left the service to assume the position of superintendent of the mines of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited.

IN COAL INDUSTRY

In May, 1920, Mr. Wilkinson resigned his position of chief inspector of mines to accept the position of manager of the Pacific Coast Coal Company, with which concern he remained until May, 1923, when he was again appointed to the chief inspectorship of the mines department following the retirement, through ill-health, of the late James McGregor, who was appointed following Mr. Wilkinson's resignation in 1920. Since then Mr. Wilginson filled the Government office in a manner which has won for him the praise no alone of his superior, Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, but also of the coal mine operators of the Province.

WIDE EXPERIENCE

Having himself been a coal miner and operator, the late Mr. Wilkinson was thoroughly acquainted with all phases of the industry. He knew the problems of the operators as well as the workers, and his judgment in many cases where he was called upon to exercise his authority by virtue of his position was never called in question.

In the enforcement of the regulations governing coal mining in British Columbia the late Mr. Wilkinson was eminently fair and just, and the fact that he held in such full manner the confidence of his superiors as well as those engaged in the great industry is testimony to his fitness for the office and the success with which he carried out his duties.

In the efforts of Hon. Mr. Sloan to improve safety conditions in the mines of the Province the late Mr. Wilkinson took a prominent part and it is as a result of those efforts that to-day British Columbia occupies a unique position among the coal producing areas of the world in the small percentage of fatalities in the mines. The regulations now in force in British Columbia have received the unstinted praise of leading coal mining authorities the world over. The introduction of the electric safety lamp, the adoption of the system of rock dusting to prevent mine explosions, and many other up-to-date methods to save life are the result of the co-operation between the Minister and his Inspector.

PIONEER IN MINING

The late Mr. Wilkinson was a pioneer in the rock-dusting method, a method brought into effect in the Fernie field following the disaster there in 1917. Since then the method has received the endorsation of the leading coal mining authorities, notably the United States Bureau of Mines.

SLOAN IS SHOCKED

The death of Mr. Wilkinson proved a severe shock to Hon. William Sloan, Minister of Mines, who, besides being the late Inspector's superior, was a warm personal friend of his for many years and fully appreciated the sterling worth of his official and friend.

In his younger days the late Mr. Wilkinson was a keen athlete and was prominent in football circles in Nanaimo, besides being proficient in other branches of athletics. He had a host of friends there who will sincerely regret to learn of his death.

The Canadian Government Merchant Marine steamship Canadian Prospector is due here on Friday to load lumber and Shimidzu tea consigned to Montreal. The Canadian Winner is expected here on August 19 to take on a cargo of lumber.

ENTRIES IN MOVIE SCREEN CONTEST CLOSE SATURDAY

Tickets For Competition to Aid Solarium Still Available; Car First Prize

Saturday, August 14, is the day on which entries close for the movie star contest in aid of the Solarium for Crippled Children.

All ballots denoting the order of the popularity of the first ten of twenty-five film favorites must be posted not later than Saturday to the address given on the ticket.

After all the entries have been received, a prominent movie magnate in the United States will be consulted, and the person whose list of stars conforms most nearly with the one supplied by him, will be adjudged the winner of the 1926 model McLaughlin-Buick coupe. Other valuable prizes will also be given.

Tickets, price $1, may be obtained up till Saturday at The Times, Colonist or any of the following stores: E. A. Morris, H. A. Davie, the Empress Hotel, David Spencer's, Ltd., W. M. Carmichael, Litchfield's, Steele's, Brown's (florist), W. H. Wilkerson, Mitchell & Duncan, C. G. Smith, Diggon's, the Pet Shop, Fletcher's, and the Owl drug store.

CRANBROOK AGENCY IS REORGANIZED

J. Kennedy, for many years a prominent figure in the Provincial Service in the interior of the Province, has been appointed Government Agent at Cranbrook, it was announced at the Parliament Buildings to-day. Mr. Kennedy was mining recorder in Cranbrook for many years and later in the labor bureau there. From the latter position he has been promoted to take charge of the Government Agency. J. A. Stewart, becomes deputy commissioner of lands for Cranbrook.

By Order-in-Council to-day the Cabinet voted $500 to aid settlers who suffered losses in a recent tornado in the Spring Lake district of the Cariboo country.

MEIGHEN STATES HIS TARIFF VIEWS

Deloraine, Man., Aug. 11—Premier Meighen addressed electors of the Federal constituencies of Souris and Macdonald yesterday.

"We shall revise our tariff through and through. It has never been revised in twenty years," he said in a speech here in stating the views of the Conservatives.

He said he had no intention of creating a "Haman's gallows" tariff. "Never thought of it," he declared; "no need of it. It is not the height of the tariff that is of importance; it is the principle which underlies it—the permanency of it, the stability of it. We will give every industry in Canada a chance—give it an opportunity in our own market which every Canadian industry has the right to have."

Competition, he said in a speech at Glenboro, would take care of prices, "but if it doesn't," he added, "we will do it with the hand of government."

"The Conservative party," he said, "stands where it has always stood—for a moderate tariff, a tariff definitely protective on all production, agricultural and everything else."

QUICK WORK PUTS COAST FIRES UNDER COMPLETE CONTROL

Hot Winds Driving Flames on Through More Timber in Devastated Salmon Valley

Every forest fire which has broken out in the Coast districts of British Columbia in the last few weeks has been extinguished or brought under control, reports to the headquarters of the forestry service here to-day showed. Splendid work on the part of rangers combined with improved weather conditions in most districts accounted for this satisfactory result.

Fires are still devastating large areas in the interior of the Province. South of Nelson in the Salmon River Valley, scene of many serious outbreaks, fires were out of control today and racing on into new timber.

GOES TO INTERIOR

No settlements there are in immediate danger but the situation is regarded as extremely grave. P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester, accompanied by other officials of the forestry service, went to Nelson last night to look over conditions there and to direct firefighting operations.

While these areas are outside provincial jurisdiction, being in the Dominion Government Railway Belt, fire conditions around Revelstoke and Golden are reported as serious. Many large outbreaks are raging there and ashes from one large fire fell in Golden yesterday.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT SPEEDS BRIDGE WORK

Settlement of a long strike among pile drivers and bridge carpenters yesterday made possible the resumption of work on the Provincial Government's new highway bridge across the Harrison River at Agassiz. The viaduct will be ready for traffic in three weeks and will enable motors to move from Vancouver to Harrison Lake.

Duke of York To Travel For Six Months Abroad

London, Aug. 11 (Canadian Press Cable)—Whether the Duke of York's tour to Australia and New Zealand and his general engagements next year will enable him to accept the invitation of the directors of the Canadian National Exhibition to open the annual fair in Toronto in 1927, it is impossible to state at present. He has already made engagements that will require his absence from Great Britain for over six months, but on more than one occasion he has expressed a keen desire to visit Canada.

The Duke and Duchess, with their infant daughter, left last night for Glamis Castle, Forfarshire, to visit the Duchess's parents, the Earl and Countess of Strathmore.

Mr. Merchant—

Do you know stores no better than yours—that are advertised twice as much? Do you know some that are not half so good as yours—yet better advertised? Think it over, and let it worry you somewhat!

No store ad that offers a genuine buying opportunity—one that is obvious and convincing—ever failed to pay.

Make your store as good as your ads and your ads better than any others. That's "hitching your wagon to a star." An attainable star!

If you are offering a buying opportunity at your store that is really notable—make your advertising of it really notable.

For nine out of every ten busy days in your store, you'll find "the reason" is in your advertising. And for nine out of every ten "slack days" in your store, you'll find the reason in your lack of advertising.

A store bargain has an advertising value when it's well advertised!

The store programme must include more and more value-giving—and better and better advertising.

Advertising so good that it appeals to the usually indifferent person will make any store take a sudden "jump" into prosperity.

The store whose publicity is so persistent that it builds up an ever-widening clientele of readers—that store will grow and prosper as though it had no competition at all!

YOUR BABY and MINE
by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

FATIGUE IN CHILDREN

The keenly understanding mother is quick to recognize that most of the naughtiness of children is due in most cases to just being tired. Instead of scolding and nagging and making them worse, she talks to them in a quiet voice, suggests that they take a nice cool bath and insists on a rest period. Unless the child is absolutely abnormal, this scheme, if carried out in the right spirit will make over the child completely, and he will get up from his hour of rest and be as good as gold.

Now an eminent doctor puts an official aspect on these observations made by every mother. He lists fatigue as one of the chief causes of poor school work, of the failure to grow properly, and of abnormal emotional reactions.

This doctor suggests that while the actual amount of fatigue is hard to measure, the fact that a child is over tired is not difficult to determine. Four things make this apparent. The child complains of being tired. He fails to make the progressive gains in weight, or fails to measure up to standards of physical development, and he does not keep up to the average pupil in his school work. In addition he is the victim of emotional disturbances that show his unbalance.

In simple terms, if your child complains of being too tired to play, if he wants to sit about languidly, he is not up to his grade in school and is cranky and quarrelsome and hard to live with, his trouble is fatigue. What he needs is more rest, day and night. He needs to go to bed earlier and sleep later. He needs to have a nap period every day. This is difficult, I know, but when one is dealing with conditions which can be cured by more sleep, there is not a mother that will consider any efforts to gain that sleep, too hard for her.

After four years of age most children outgrow their naps. For no reason that anyone can see, a child, who has formerly been sleeping every afternoon, will refuse to sleep and will cry and fuss if kept in bed.

It is a fine idea, when this first starts, for the mother to devote some time to keeping the child happy for this rest period. Do not insist that he sleep. Put the child, undressed, in a darkened room, and sit with him, reading, or telling a story in a quiet droning voice. Most children will fall asleep. Right after lunch is the natural time for children to be sleepy. So make this the nap time.

After the child has school periods both morning and afternoon the difficulty of getting in a rest period is increased. If the child is put to bed at seven at night he may not feel the loss of the nap, but if he is a highly nervous, thin, wiry type, who can't get fat no matter what food he eats, insist on the rest period at least before the dinner hour. A half or three-quarter hour of complete rest will do much for the child in helping him to assimilate the food he eats, as well as in giving him an appetite for that food.

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A self-addressed stamped envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

DUNCAN TO HEAR BISHOP OF LONDON

Rt. Hon. A. F. Winnington-Ingram to Speak Up-island September 10

Duncan, B.C., August 11.—The Agricultural Hall has been secured for a public meeting on Friday, September 10, when the Bishop of London the Right Rev. F. Winnington-Ingram, will be the principal speaker.

The Bishop of London will officiate on the previous day at the foundation-stone ceremonies of the new Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, and the Bishop of Columbia and others from Victoria will accompany him on his visit to Duncan.

A large gathering of church people is expected at the meeting here, and invitations will be extended through the churches of the district. The meeting will be held at 7.30 p.m.

Local committees have already been formed to co-operate with other parishes in the diocese in promoting interest in the building of the new cathedral. H. B. Tooker is chairman for Cobble Hill, Col. Eardley-Wilmot will represent Shawnigan Lake, and W. E. Fawdry will act for St. Mary's Church, Cobble Hill. Others appointed in the district are Bateman Hope, Quamichan; W. J. Neal, Duncan; R. H. M. Shaw, Somenos; Capt. J. D. Groves, Westholme; T. H. Toynbee, Chemainus; W. Garner, Ladysmith.

Women's Danger

WITH the old-time "sanitary pad" women realize their constant danger of offense, plus the embarrassment of disposal. And thus spend unhappy days.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

VICTORIA DISTRICT GIRL GUIDE CAMP

The Victoria District Girl Guide camp at Kaltassin Beach, Sooke, broke up on Saturday after a very successful and enjoyable two weeks under canvas.

The 120 guiders and guides were divided into three camps under Miss Leighton, Miss Sterling and Miss Gale, with Miss Lee as trained nurse. The whole party left Victoria July 24, and set to work so energetically on arrival that by 6 p.m. the twenty-eight tents were pitched, kitchen and sanitary arrangements established and supper was cooking merrily on the three kitchen fires. Although many of the children had never camped before as Guides they settled down very quickly and everything worked smoothly from the first.

On Wednesday, July 28, the camp was formally inspected by the Acting Provincial Commissioner, Mrs. Kinloch, accompanied by Mrs. Burdick, District Commissioner, and Miss Thompson, Divisional Commissioner for Shanghai, who gave the guides a short but interesting account of Guiding in China. This year the camp was honored by an unusually large number of interested visitors, including many members of the local association, Miss Leighton, Divisional Commissioner for Chelsea, England, Mrs. Ogilvy, a member of the Dominion Camp Committee, Miss Leigh and Miss MacArthur from Vancouver, Mrs. Gale, District Commissioner for South Saanich; and Commissioner Raven Hill for the Boy Scouts.

Camp fires were held on the beach each night, when the air was filled with melody and some wonderful fancy dress costumes appeared evolved from blankets, bathing dresses and a very limited kit.

Many hikes were made to the favorite bathing place up the Sooke River, and towards the end of the period a number of guides won their swimmers' badges, for which Miss A. Stewart Williams acted as examiner.

Two energetic guides of the Gonzales Company, on one of the hottest days in camp, took over the duties of the whole cook patrol and gained their cook's badges by cooking the dinner of roast meat, vegetables and pudding for their twenty-six companions.

The campers are indebted to Mrs. Pike, Mrs. C. Pike and Mrs. Troya for many kindnesses.

PRETTY WEDDING AT ST. SAVIOUR'S

Marriage Yesterday of Leslie Deacon and Miss A. Turnbull

A quiet wedding was celebrated at St. Saviour's Church on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, when Miss Agnes Turnbull, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Turnbull of 939 Craigflower Road, became the bride of Mr. Leslie C. Deacon of Port Angeles, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Deacon of Marine Drive, Sidney.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. L. Stephenson, the church being prettily decorated with plants and flowers.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, and was dressed in a lovely dress of mauve georgette trimmed with lace insertion, with hat to match. The bridesmaid was Miss Louie Lemmax, who was prettily dressed in a peach-colored silk dress with hat to match. Mr. Lovell Turnbull, brother of the bride, was best man.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party which, owing to a recent death in the bride's family, was composed only of very near relatives and old friends, went to the bride's home, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Deacon will spend the week motoring up the Island, and will then go to Port Angeles, where they will make their home.

RECEPTION FOR BISHOP OF LONDON

Women's Committee Met Yesterday to Complete Arrangements

Arrangements for a reception to the Bishop of London when he visits the city to lay the foundation-stone of the new Christ Church Cathedral were discussed at a meeting of a specially appointed Women's Committee, held yesterday afternoon in the Memorial Hall. Mrs. C. D. Schofield presided, and representatives of all Anglican churches in the district attended.

Mrs. W. A. Galliher gave a report on behalf of the reception committee, and the parish representatives agreed to co-operate with Mrs. Galliher and Mrs. A. J. Dallain in arranging further details.

A committee on Invitations was appointed, consisting of Mrs. Schofield, Mrs. Quainton, Miss Agnew and Miss Lawson. The reception will take place in the grounds of Bishop's Close, on the invitation of the Bishop and Mrs. Schofield.

Mrs. Dickson, convener of the Hospitality committee, stated that arrangements for entertaining delegates from out-of-town parishes were proceeding, and her committee had been enlarged by adding Mrs. Archbold, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Heatherbell and Miss Nicolls.

Mrs. Laycock, reporting for the committee in charge of the distribution of cathedral boxes, announced that a large number of boxes had already been applied for and some had been accepted in city stores.

An enjoyable picnic party took place at the Gorge Tea Gardens on Sunday afternoon, when eighteen people from Wilkie, Sask. met and lunched together. The following families were present: Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson and Miss Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. Frazer and daughter Dorothy, Mrs. Blair and two daughters, Mrs. Atterwell and her son; also Miss Atterwell, Mrs. Morton and her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kyle and Geo. Martin.

MENUS FOR THE FAMILY

By SISTER MARY

A vegetable dinner is a delightful way to be economical as well as thoughtful for one's family's health. The modern cure for many ills is effected through "dieting" and very often this excludes meat from our menus. Most of the best restaurants serve a "vegetable platter" and considerable skill is shown in their arrangement. Color is of some importance since this determines the beauty of the dish. The texture and flavor of the vegetables must be considered since variety is important. Also the method of cooking must be thought of. One vegetable is buttered, one creamed, one baked and another fried or steamed. There is one detail to guard against—be sure none of the vegetables are too moist. The cream sauce should be smooth and creamy, not runny, and the buttered vegetable quite dry before buttering.

VEGETABLE DINNER

Green pea timbales, creamed carrots, new potatoes in parsley butter, broiled tomatoes.

The dinner is planned to be on individual plates from the kitchen. A timbale is placed in the centre of each plate and the remaining vegetables used as a border in groups.

GREEN PEA TIMBALES

One and one-half cups pea puree, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 eggs, 3 tablespoons milk, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 or 3 drops onion juice, 1-8 teaspoon pepper.

It will take about 1½ pounds of peas in the pod to make the puree. Cook peas until tender in as little water as possible, letting the water cook away. Rub through a sieve. Beat eggs until light. Beat in remaining ingredients and turn into six buttered timbale molds or custard cups. Place in a pan of hot water, cover with buttered paper and bake about 25 minutes in a moderately hot oven. Unmold to serve.

Ukrainian Girl Chained up and Left by Father

Vernon, B.C., Aug. 11.—J. Shullder, Ukrainian, chained his seventeen-year-old daughter in the basement with her arms stretched above her head as punishment for some trivial offence and then retired to bed. Police officers demanded admittance and released the girl. To the magistrate, Shullder, as an excuse for his action, said this was the way his parents had punished him. The magistrate gave him thirty days' imprisonment.

Busy on Exhibit—The members of the Victoria Women's Institute are very busy completing arrangements in connection with the institute exhibit at the fair. Mrs. Colby, general convener, requests that all members who are sending articles for the exhibit will please leave them in rooms, 103 Union Bank Building, View Street, on Friday or Saturday, with the exception of home cooking, which must be delivered at fair grounds early Monday morning. The regular business meeting will be held on Friday, August 20. As business of importance will come before the meeting a full attendance is desired. The tag day arrangements are progressing satisfactorily, but as this will be the last general meeting to be held before September 4, when the tag for the solarium will be held, the committee hopes for a still further response from the members.

W.C.T.U. Picnic—A picnic under the auspices of the Victoria District W.C.T.U., will be held at the Japanese Gardens, Gorge Park, on Thursday, Aug. 12, at 3 p.m. It is hoped that all members of the five unions will take their friends and baskets as it is not intended to hold a meeting but to make this a social rally. An excellent cup of tea, and all dishes required, is furnished at this popular resort. The committee will welcome members and friends of the temperance cause.

Kumtuks Picnic—Members of the Kumtuks Club have been invited to a picnic meeting at the Summer home of Mrs. C. W. Bradshaw at Cordova Bay on Monday, Aug. 16. Members are asked to take the bus which leaves MacFarlane's Drug Store at 5.15 p.m.

Seattle, Aug. 11—A marriage license was granted to-day to Harry C. Fairservice of Victoria, B.C., and Julia W. Rogers, Auburn, Wash.

It's Perfect Accessories That Make the Costume

By HENRI BENDEL

New York, Aug. 1 (By Mail).—Whether you are a real artist in dress or only a dilettante is revealed in the accessories you wear.

It is a perfectly simple matter to choose a becoming frock, provided you have access to good shops.

But to get exactly the right hat, pumps, hosiery, jewelry, and handbag for that becoming frock is another matter. It requires a subtlety not involved in the original purchase.

It is in the selection of accessories that the French woman shows her mastery of dress. She is apt to buy them first, the frock later. She will economise on the gown, in order that she may have the little extras her artistic taste demands.

BIASED BY THRIFT

On the other hand, the average woman allows her native thrift to bias her buying. She will pay any price for her gowns and hats, more than the French woman would dream of, because they seem most important to her.

Then, because she has not trained herself to appreciate the value of her hosiery, gloves, and shoes and does not always realize what they contribute to her ensemble, she may ruin the effect of very extravagant purchases.

Always I advise women to choose gloves, shoes, bags, scarfs, parasols and boutonnieres as carefully as gowns. And if one has to buy with a close eye on the expenses, I advise economy in gowns rather than accessories.

For accessories can make a gown, but a gown, not matter how lovely becomes inarticulate and ineffective when badly chosen hosiery and too ornate gloves keep company with it.

The scarf is the best friend of the woman of limited income, because it gives her such variety.

With any simple, well cut crepe or chiffon frock, charmingly individual effects may be worked out with different scarfs. Pictured to-day is a stunning one of chiffon with white background and red and black squares. It has a deep border of red satin that is a touch suggestive of the approach of Autumn.

This season's scarfs come in all colors and all color combinations, and in all sizes, the square and the rectangle being equally popular. They liven up the tailleur or the sport frock, and in chiffon or pastel colored silks they can transform the evening or the dancing frock.

DEFY UNIFORMITY

In handbags, I call your attention to the huge model photographed, which is of pigskin stitched to form decorative squares, and given a monogrammed flap. This one is a purple leather, but similar ones may be found in black, tan, bright red, bright blue, or green.

These bright colored bags, with a hat of the same color, give a note of interest to the street outfit that challenges the commonplace and defies uniformity. Bags that match the shoes, in alligator or snakeskin, are also popular.

And I must say a word about parasols. Last Summer they were covered with flowers of all colors, but the note of flambouyancy is gone, and this year the fashionable woman prefers the pastel shades in soft blues, tender greens, and cyclamen pink. The handles are short and the frames on the Japanese style. The younger set carry them in preference to wearing hats.

CATTLE PEST BRINGS INDIA'S SACRED BULL TO FLORIDA EVERGLADES

A Herd of Sacred Bulls Ready for Slaughter and, Below a Typical Animal

Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 11.—A word tick is bringing the Sacred Bull of Bull of India, worshipped for centuries by the Hindus, to dinner tables here.

The tick made it impossible to raise ordinary beef cattle in the Everglades. It caused them to become infected and die. The Sacred Bull, or zebu, is impervious to the tick.

The first carload of the new fad meat was shipped to Louisville, Ky., by way of New Orleans. The cattle, averaging 1,100 pounds each, sold for nine cents on the hoof. Its flesh, said to be richer and fuller flavored than ordinary beef, is being served by hotels and clubhouses there as a delicacy.

Further shipments are being sent to other southern towns.

Men Who Had Fought Fires in Forests Robbed

Spokane, Aug. 11.—Twenty forest fighters returning to Spokane in a box car were held up and robbed by three armed men twelve miles east of here late last night. L. Smith, of Acme, Oregon, reported he had been robbed of $70 and said many of the firefighters had been robbed of all their wages. No estimate of the total amount taken was made by the police.

Fashion Pointers About the New Fall Coats

We Are Already Showing Several Smart New Models for Fall

The New Season's Coats are endeavoring to show differences of line and effect that will make every woman feel it necessary for her to purchase a new one for her Fall wardrobe.

There is a softening of the sleeve line which carries a suggestion of the Dolman. Many sleeves show important cuffs and even gauntlet effects. The bloused back is another of the new notes and a third is the flying panel.

Fur collars tend to stand up high to the neck, in many cases the fur being on both sides of the collar and occasionally extending down front to the hem line. The new dress coat fabrics are in soft pile effects, such as pin point, needle point and suedine. Sports coats are in striking plaids and novelty woolens, such as has been favored the past season, but in new guise of coloring or weave.

We have examples to show you arriving daily. Come in early and inspect them.

Prices in tweeds.....$37.50
In suedine, $45.00 and $49.50
In pin point and other pile fabrics, $55.00 to $65.00

Is Your Vision Perfect?

A careful record kept by an ocular expert in Government service during the operation of the Conscription Act, showed that over 50% of the young men coming under his attention failed to meet the army requirements for good vision. This fact indicates the handicap under which so many people are living, and yet the cost of a scientific examination and glasses need not be more than $10.00.

NOMINATIONS FOR FEDERAL ELECTION

Federal nominations reported in dispatches to The Times include:

Halifax County, two seats—Lieut.-Colonel J. L. Ralston and John Murphy, Liberals, and Hon. W. A. Black and Felix P. Quinn, Conservatives.

St. Henri, Que.—Paul Mercier, Liberal.

Melfort, Sask—Malcolm McLean, Liberal.

Mackenzie, Sask. — Milton N. Campbell, Progressive.

VEGREVILLE NOMINATION

Mundare, Alta., Aug. 11.—At one of the largest district conventions held in Alberta this year, A. M. Boutillier, Progressive member for Vegreville in the last Parliament, was defeated for renomination by a ballot of eighty-five to eighty-one in favor of Mike Lukovitch, school teacher of the Vegreville district.

ALBERTA CONTESTS

Edmonton, Aug. 11 (Canadian Press)—Right Hon. Mackenzie King visited Edmonton yesterday, taking a brief part in the intensive campaign which is rapidly developing in the province.

A triangular contest of interest has developed again in the Peace River constituency. D. M. Kennedy, who was one of the key men in some of the close divisions in the House of Commons last year, held the seat for the United Farmers of Alberta by a slim margin of votes. Out of the election in Peace River last Fall grew the now famous case of "Baldy" Robb. This year Mr. Kennedy will have Liberal and Conservative opponents. James A. Collins, the Conservative who lost by a few votes in 1925, is again standing for election, as well as J. A. Clark, Liberal and former mayor of Edmonton.

W. IRVINE STANDS

William Irvine, desk mate in the Commons of J. S. Woodsworth two years ago, appears among the United Farmer candidates, this year in Wetaskiwin, where a three-cornered fight is now assured. S. G. Tobin, Liberal, won the seat last year and the Conservative candidate is Charles H. Russell.

EDMONTON CONTESTS

In West Edmonton there will be a contest between Hon. Charles Stewart, former Minister of the Interior, and Lieut.-Colonel F. C. Jamieson, Conservative.

Edmonton East in the last Parliament was represented by A. U. G. Bury, Conservative, who will meet K. A. Blatchford, Liberal, at the polls in September and it is highly probable a Labor candidate will also be in the running.

It appears the old ginger group of two years ago is standing together in the present campaign. The names of Gardiner, Kellner, Spencer, Lucas, Kennedy and Speakman all appear on the nomination list.

Celtic at Liverpool from New York.

Aquitania at Southampton from New York.

Empress of France at Southampton from Quebec.

VESSELS COLLIDE DURING DENSE FOG

Freighter Colusa and Williams Line Steamer Willhilo Met Off Destruction Island

Seattle, Aug. 11.—With a gaping hole in her side, the Williams Line freighter Willhilo was due here about noon to-day. The ship collided with the W. R. Grace & Company freighter Colusa in the Pacific Ocean off Destruction Island forty miles south of Cape Flattery.

The Grace vessel which damaged her prow left her port anchor and part of the chain in the Willhilo, proceeded to Astoria, Ore.

Aberdeen, Wash., Aug. 11.—The collision of the freighters Willhilo and Colusa off Destruction Island, was due to heavy fog, the Grays Harbor Stevedore Company wireless station here announced. H. M. Delanty, manager of the company, said that the ships collided head on, both being damaged near the bow and above the waterline.

Japanese Fishing Boat Stranded

Prince Rupert, Aug. 11.—No word has been received here this morning in regard to the extent of the damage to the Japanese-owned seine fishing boat Shushona III, which stranded on Hammer Rocks in Hecate Straits, south of here yesterday afternoon. A salvage vessel in command of Captain Swanson left last night for the scene with extensive equipment for refloating the vessel and effecting temporary repairs, if necessary.

Four Boats Lost In Sunday's Storm

St. Johns, Nfld., Aug. 11.—Messages from Labrador state that in the storm on Sunday four vessels were lost at Lac du Loup. Many stages were destroyed and several motorboats were swept away. No loss of life was reported.

Present estimates of the Labrador fishery place the catch at about a third of that of last year owing to stormy weather.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, Aug. 11. — The freighter Oduna which arrived here yesterday from Alaska brought 50,000 cases of canned salmon for discharge here, and 3,000 tons of copper ore for Tacoma.

ARABIAN PRINCE DOCKS WITH BIG CARGO OF CORN

Prince Line Steamship Makes Port From Buenos Ayres With 7,000 Tons Aboard

Heavily laden with Argentine corn the Prince Line steamship Arabian Prince arrived at Pier 2 from Buenos Ayres this morning at 7.30 o'clock. The vessel came to this coast from South America by way of the Panama Canal, clearing from the southern port on July 2.

The Prince Line is associated with the Furness Line Limited. The Arabian Prince is a British vessel, being registered at the port fo Newcastle.

The inbound vessel had a total of 7,000 tons of corn aboard, of which 700 tons will be discharged at this port. The remainder is consigned to Vancouver and New Westminster.

Unloading of the local cargo will not be finished until to-morrow morning when the ship will proceed to the Mainland. Unusual activity was seen around the vessel this morning during the unloading operations. A large gang of longshoremen are on the job and the corn, which is sacked, is being loaded off the vessel in two slings, being placed on scales after it is taken off the ship. The dock workers then transport it into the wharf sheds where it will be stored until wanted by the owners. Another busy worker this morning was the sampler who takes out a little corn from a number of the sacks for testing purposes.

This consignment is an unusual one to be sent here from the Argentine, and is only the second cargo to arrive in two years.

Continued drought in Manchuria has practically destroyed all crops, including corn, which is the Chinese province's chief product, and it is owing to this shortage that Argentine corn is being imported.

An idea of the heavy cargo brought by the Arabian Prince is the fact that upon arrival here she was drawing twenty-four feet of water aft and twenty-two feet forward.

Fishermen Rescued From Burning Craft

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 11.—A thrilling rescue of three San Diego fishermen took place twenty-five miles off Point Loma yesterday when the schooner Arica Jose burned to the water's edge and sank, according to word brought to the American Fishermen's Protective Association.

FRIGHTENED AUNT CALLS POLICE TO SEARCH FOR BOYS

George and Percy Critchley, However, Were Safe and Sound Ashore

Alarmed over the continued absence of her two nephews, who set out in a small boat from Clover Point yesterday at noon, Miss Radcliffe, aunt of the two lads, George and Percy Critchley, both of Vancouver, sent a frantic appeal to the Provincial Police headquarters at 6 o'clock last night.

Summoning a power boat to search the coast waters in the vicinity of Clover Point and around towards Trial Island and Oak Bay, the Provincial Police set about their quest for the missing youths at 6 o'clock. When the launch was ready to leave and the police were preparing a search party at headquarters, the sudden jangle of the telephone cut in upon their work.

It was a small, nervous voice who spoke to the constable who answered the call. It said that George and Percy Critchley both were safe and calling headquarters from a store on Yates Street.

They had set out for a boat ride from Clover Point at noon, but when they went to return to the place of their departure, they found the tide too strong. They consequently made for Victoria harbor and landed about 7.30 o'clock.

The search party was subsequently recalled and Miss Radcliffe, the aunt, immediately informed of the safety of her nephews.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, Aug. 11. — The Dollar liner President Taft was scheduled to arrive here early this morning from the Orient by way of Honolulu. The Taft has a capacity passenger list and cargo.

The Oceanic liner Sierra, carrying 150 passengers sailed yesterday for Australia via the Hawaiian Islands.

The purchase of the steamer Deuel of the United States Shipping Board by the W. R. Grace and Company has been announced.

The recently consolidated American Far East line and the Pacific Australia line will hereafter be known as the American-Australia-Orient line, according to Swayne and Hoyt, operators of the combined line.

The cause of the sinking of the steamer Daisy, which sank at her berth here yesterday morning, has not yet been determined, according to officials of the Ss. Freeman Company, owners.

RUN OF SOCKEYE AHEAD OF LAST YEAR'S CATCH

Fishermen do Well in Skeena and Naas Rivers Districts; Rivers Inlet Catch Poor

Fishermen returning to Victoria from northern waters state that Sockeye fishing in the Naas and Skeena River districts is a little better than last year, the Skeena being over 9,000 cases ahead of 1925. The height of the pink run is expected this week, while the run of Chums and Cohoes comes later.

The run of Sockeye in the Rivers Inlet district to date has been poor. Whereas the total pack at this time last year was 121,387 cases in this district; to date the total is 53,277 cases.

The trollers operating on the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands have quit those waters for the season and the natives are engaged in seine fishing and cannery work on the islands. The majority of the white fishermen have gone to the Dundas Island and Warke Canal districts.

Following are the figures of the pack for the season up to July 31 for the Naas River, Skeena River and Rivers Inlet districts:

Naas River—Sockeye, 9,665 cases; Springs, 5,620; Steelheads, 34; Cohoes, 604; Pinks, 23,434; Chums, 3,836; total, 43,193.

Skeena River—Sockeye, 55,841 cases; Springs, 18,150; Steelheads, 174; Cohoes, 3,677; Pinks, 45,950; Chums, 3,571; total, 127,363.

Rivers Inlet—Sockeye, 53,277 cases; Springs, 365; Cohoes, 427; Pinks, 2,788; Chums, 114; Steelheads, 9; total, 56,980.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

Esquimalt.—To find the depth of water on the sill of the dry dock at any tide, add 16.5 feet to the height of high water as above given.

WOOD ALCOHOL KILLS 38 IN EAST—Fourteen people were killed in Buffalo, N.Y., and 24 more died in other parts of New York and Ontario as a result of drinking wood alcohol which originated in Buffalo. The upper picture shows a Buffalo patrolman guarding the safe of James C. Voelker, who has been arrested on a charge of first degree murder as the distributor of the liquor. Below, at the left, police are destroying a still alleged to have produced the liquor. At the right is Voelker.

OBITUARY

There passed away early yesterday morning at the residence, 131 South Turner Street, the Rev. Windham Madden, aged seventy-seven years. He was born in England and had been a resident of the city for the last two years. The body is resting at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, whence the funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3.20, proceeding to Christ Church Cathedral, where service has been arranged for 3.30. The body will be laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Many friends paid their last tribute at the funeral of Mrs. Harry S. Ives, 1556 Fourteenth Avenue West, Vancouver, which took place on Thursday. Mrs. Ives had been a resident of British Columbia for thirty-six years, living in both Vancouver and Victoria, having resided here for sixteen years. Interment took place in the family plot at Ocean View Burial Park. In addition to her husband, deceased is survived by four sons: Leo of Lund, B.C.; Fred, Lawrence and Harry, all of Vancouver; and three daughters, Jeanne, Florence and Muriel, at home.

MR. S. E. HOLMES DIED EARLY TO-DAY

Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes, wife of Col. J. G. Holmes, died shortly before 8 o'clock this morning at the family residence, Barberry Gardens.

Born in Deansville, Ontario, Mrs. Holmes on Saturday last celebrated her seventy-sixth birthday. She was seized suddenly last night and died this morning of heart trouble.

Col. Holmes and a family of five sons and daughters survive: Col. W. J. H. Holmes, Victoria; H. A. Holmes, Toronto; Mrs. Frederick Hay of Victoria, now on her way to England; Mrs. E. A. C. Studd, Vancouver, and Mrs. B. Garland-Ashley, Tonapah, Nevada.

Mrs. Holmes' body lies at the B.C. Funeral Parlors.

The funeral will take place on Friday from St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, at 3.30 o'clock.

FUNERAL OF LATE E. DRUMMOND-HAY HELD YESTERDAY

The funeral of the late Edward Drummond-Hay took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the B.C. Funeral Chapel and proceeded to St. John's Church at Colwood, where service was conducted by Rev. H. Pearson.

Many friends attended and the casket was covered with floral tributes.

The hymn sung was "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." The following acted as pallbearers: J. G. Sebley, R. Heron, D. D. Colclough, A. S. Barton, H. Drummond-Hay and B. Lloyd.

Interment was made at St. John's Cemetery.

FASHION SHOW AT VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Aug. 11—British Columbia's growing pre-eminence in garment manufacture and design was emphasized here last evening, when the first annual fashion show, in connection with the Board of Trade buyers' week, was staged. More than 500 buyers from outside points, including many Alberta representatives, by almost continuous applause, expressed approval and admiration for the garments displayed by a corps of mannequins.

The fashion show was preceded by a dinner, tendered by the wholesale bureau of the Board of Trade.

Lieut.-Governor R. Randolph Bruce, Mayor L. D. Taylor and F. E. Burke, president of the Board of Trade, spoke briefly in welcome to the visitors.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A potato paring competition will be held next Wednesday afternoon in the Women's Building during fair week. All entries must be in the hands of Mrs. Hale, 3137 Orillia Street, by Saturday next.

Rev. Jas. H. Pateman will continue his series of lectures at the New Thought Temple every day at 3 and 8 o'clock. Healing by the laying on of hands will form a feature each evening after the lecture.

Members of the Salvation Army Home League will hold their annual picnic at the Japanese Tea Gardens, the Gorge, on Thursday afternoon at 3 p.m. Visiting officers and Home League members from other corps are invited to attend.

A small grass fire on the Songhees Reserve yesterday afternoon was promptly attended by the Victoria Fire Department and smothered before it had time to spread. It was reported at 3.30 o'clock and was out by 4 p.m.

At the intersection of Douglas Street and Hillside Avenue, Ricardo Bianio and Levening Nylander last night drove their automobiles into collision. Bianio's little daughter was cut about the face by flying glass. Both automobiles were considerably damaged.

George Chapman of 878 Fisgard Street, was sent to jail for one month by Magistrate Jay in the city police court this morning for allowing liquor to be kept in his house. Arthur Mattram, charged with supplying him with liquor, was dismissed.

Twenty-five babies of different ages were judged yesterday afternoon by Dr. A. G. Price, medical health officer, in connection with the competition held at the Conservative clubrooms. In the contest there were five sets of twins. Mrs. Campbell of Beaver Lake, mother of the prize twins, won the silver cup.

As there appears to be some misunderstanding as to the deal between F. R. Stewart and Company Limited and the B. Wilson Company Limited, the latter concern have made the following statement: "We have purchased from F. R. Stewart and Company all their equipment and stock in Victoria, and have taken over the lease of the building they occupied. We have not purchased their book debts and have nothing to do with their Vancouver business in any shape or form. F. R. Stewart and Company will continue their business to all points contiguous to Vancouver with the exception of Victoria city and district."

STEVENS SAYS HE PAID FOR PRINTING

Minister of Customs Denies Government Presses Put Out His Speech Free

Vancouver, Aug. 11.—"The suggestion published in Vancouver that I had used the Government printing presses to have my speech printed at the public cost," declared Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Customs, in a statement to the press on his arrival here from Ottawa last night, "is the most absurd nonsense, but it is characteristic of the kind of campaign that is being waged against me.

"For the benefit of those who circulated that rumor, let me tell them that the printing of that speech is all paid for. It is a right every member has, and utilizes, to have his speeches printed—at his own expense—at the Government printing office. The ranking privileges in the mails are also the right of every member, and I exercised that right.

"The allegations contained in the attack on me are piffling nonsense."

RUM FIGHTS LEAD TO SEVERAL DEATHS

Series of Clashes in Florida and Waters Near That State, Reports Show

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 11.—Three men known to have lost their lives, two reported killed and two critically wounded, make up the toll for two encounters between rum-runners, hijackers, bootleggers, United States coastguardsmen and federal agents in Florida in the last five days.

Three alleged violators of the liquor laws were killed in a pitched battle with seven federal prohibition agents on a lonely road near Homestead, when they pursued and opened fire on the government agents, who were returning to Miami after a series of raids on hidden stills in the Everglades.

FIGHT AT SEA

Capt. Bob Pantz and Leo Gunway, cook of the Nova Scotia rum-running schooner Hazel Herman, are in a St. Augustine hospital, critically wounded as a result of a battle at sea Monday. The two men say they were attacked by hijackers and in the firing two men in the attacking party were killed.

The schooner was taken in charge of a coastguard patrol boat after the two wounded men had been removed by a shrimp fisher.

Residents of Jacksonville Beach reported having witnessed a three-cornered battle between three vessels and a seaplane a short distance offshore yesterday.

LIQUOR IN SCHOONER

At Savannah, Ga., where the captured Hazel Herman was convoyed by coastguardsmen, customs officers were reported to have found several hundred cases of assorted liquor and several barrels of alcohol aboard the vessels. The schooner was en route to her home port after having been released at Mobile, Alabama, by federal authorities.

LABOR GROUP BACK J. E. ARMISHAW IN COMOX-ALBERNI

Canadian Labor Party Issues Manifesto to Electors in His Support

J. E. Armishaw, Sayward, V.I., Farmer-Labor candidate in the Comox-Alberni riding, left yesterday to open up a series of meetings in the interest of his cause in the forthcoming Federal election. He will be assisted by speakers from the Canadian Labor Party.

In a manifesto issued by the Canadian Labor Party yesterday, Mr. Armishaw's candidacy is supported. The address is by way of an open letter to the electors and reads, in part, as follows:

"We believe J. E. Armishaw, who has been a resident farmer of Sayward, V.I., for the past fourteen years, is well known not only in the constituency of Comox-Alberni, but farther afield in his efforts to better the conditions of all those who labor, and that Comox-Alberni is the best constituency for a Farmer-Labor contest, being about equally divided between agricultural and industrial workers.

"Mr. Armishaw has been a member of the Canadian Labor Party since its inception on Vancouver Island, and from boyhood has been connected with the Labor movement, first as a miner and later as a baker and confectioner in these organizations, carrying the union card. It was failing health that induced him to go to the land where for the past twelve years he has been closely associated with the genuine Farmer movement of Canada, his activities bringing him in contact with all sections of society. Those who know him have no hesitancy in saying Mr. Armishaw is a man of sterling worth and dogged perseverance in the pursuit of any just cause.

"Recognizing his many qualifications, we, the executive of the Victoria branch, Canadian Labor Party, have decided to give him our support and call on the electors of Vancouver Island to contribute to his campaign fund.

"Mr. Armishaw contested Comox-Alberni as Farmer-Labor in the Federal election of 1921. In this contest we appeal to the electors of his constituency to elect him to represent us at Ottawa. We believe if we all pull together his election is assured."

J. E. ARMISHAW, CANDIDATE, STATES VIEWS TO ELECTORS

Vancouver, Aug. 11.—J. E. Armishaw of Sayward, Vancouver Island, who will run in the Comox-Alberni riding during the forthcoming Federal election as a Farmer-Labor candidate, here to-day stressed his policy of closer union between the consumers and the growers to the advantage of both.

"I am going to the country on an educational platform," he said. "Co-operative marketing is one of the problems of Canada, and the more farmers there are at Ottawa from the West, the sooner will it be solved."

Mr. Armishaw will oppose A. W. Neill, Independent of Alberni, who was elected last term, and R. McDonald of Cumberland, Conservative.

One of the features of Mr. Armishaw's tour through the riding will be the inclusion in his party of a woman speaker, who will "stump" the island.

CARRICK BEATS BALDWIN

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Alex Carrick of Toronto survived the second round of the championship flight of the Western Junior Golf Championship this afternoon, eliminating Baldwin of Bloomington, Ills., two up.

MARY BROWNE WINS

Rye, N.Y., Aug. 11.—Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Cal., to-day advanced to the semi-finals of the New York State Women's tennis championships by defeating Mrs. E. V. Roeser, New York, 6-1, 6-0.

DAVIS CUP GAMES

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 11—George Lott of Chicago and Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., today won the third and final doubles match of their Davis Cup tie series against Edward G. Chandler of California and Lewis M. White of Austin, Texas, 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 7-9, 6-4. Chandler and White won the first match in straight sets.

WILL ADVISE GOVERNMENT ON OIL IN ALBERTA

New York, Aug. 11.—T. G. Madgwick, formerly at Birmingham University in charge of the oil department, has arrived here on his way to Ottawa, his services having been retained by the Federal Government to advise the Department of the Interior regarding oil development in Alberta.

The Canadian Government is understood to be building up an efficient intelligence bureau under the control of an expert engineer, Charles C. Ross, a graduate of McGill University, whose headquarters are at Calgary.

Mr. Madgwick is a graduate of the Royal School of Mines, and is a member of various learned societies. He has investigated various fields in South America, Mexico, Egypt, the West Indies and the United States. He was for many years in Russia and is considered an authority on the Russian oil fields.

HARVEST WORKERS TRAVEL TO PRAIRIES

First Groups From Eastern Canada Are Now on Way to Grain Fields

Winnipeg, Aug. 11.—The first batches of laborers from the Maritimes are now on their way west over the Canadian National lines by way of Quebec and Cochrane to help garner the grain crops in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where cutting is getting well under way this week. Special trains left the Atlantic region of the system Monday and yesterday destined for Winnipeg, whence the men will be reticketed by a special staff at the C.N.R. station to points on the prairies where they were needed immediately for harvest work.

All preparations have been made by passenger officials here for the rapid handling of the harvesters and their baggage. A crew of special ticket clerks will be on hand on the arrival of the first special train and the business of placing the men will be proceeded with as they alight from the trains. Other special trains will be ready to take the harvesters on from here as soon as their destinations are decided.

SETTLEMENT WORK IS SUBJECT OF TOUR

Lady Cecil Studies Opportunities For British Women in Canada

Winnipeg, Aug. 11.—Traveling across Canada in the interests of the Society for the Overseas Settlement of British Women, the Hon. Lady Cecil, C.B.E., vice-chairman, passed through here this morning on the transcanada train of the Canadian Pacific. She will spend a day or two at Calgary studying opportunities for settlement of British women as domestics, nurses or nursery governesses and making a general survey of the success of the work in which she is interested. She will stay over the week-end at the Chateau Lake Louise, and go thence to Kelowna to inspect the hostel her society has established in the Okanagan.

In Vancouver, Lady Cecil, who is accompanied by her daughter, Miss Margaret Cecil, will be joined by her husband, Sir Evelyn Cecil, who is traveling with members of the British party en route to Australia to attend the annual meeting of the Empire Parliamentary Association, and they will spend a few days in Victoria.

This is Lady Cecil's first visit to Western Canada, though she and her daughter have spent several months visiting in the East. Their home is at Lytachett Heath, Dorset, with a town house in London.

New Officers Are Elected on Board of Local Y.M.C.A.

A meeting of the Board of Directors was held yesterday at the Y.M.C.A. and the appointment of new officers made. M. W. Graham was elected to the office of president, Lawrence Macrae was the choice for the vice-presidency. H. B. Witter was elected treasurer and E. Mallett, recording secretary.

Detective and Bandit Killed in New York

New York, Aug. 11—A detective and a bandit were shot and killed, another detective was probably fatally wounded and $16,000 in cash was stolen from a Long Island bank in three separate crime incidents in the New York district to-day.

Detective John Singer, forty, was shot and killed at police headquarters by Gene Pearce, a negro, charged with an automobile theft.

The negro, who was given permission to get a drink before being questioned by the detective, obtained Singer's pistol as he turned away from the water cooler. He fled and was captured three hours later.

Michael McDonald, a gunman, was killed in an exchange of shots with Detective John P. Cook, who answered a general alarm when McDonald attempted to rob a grocery store. The detective was struck close to the heart, being hurled from a police automobile, but from a prone position he fired and brought McDonald down.

BANK ROBBED

Three armed robbers held up William F. Brower, cashier of the Hewlett-Woodmere National Bank at Woodmere, L.I., took $16,000 in bills from the vault and escaped in an automobile, where a fourth bandit was waiting at the curb with the motor running.

NO MARKED STYLE CHANGE IN EUROPE

Angus Campbell Returns to City After Buying Tour Across Atlantic

After a three months' visit in Great Britain and France, Angus Campbell returned to Victoria, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Campbell stated that business conditions in England, although so greatly hindered by the recent strike, were better than he had anticipated, but the manufacturers were still handicapped by the lack of coal, some factories having to curtail their output to half the usual amount. Even under these unusual conditions, he stated that prices were normal and that everywhere in England people were optimistic about a favorable settlement.

CHANGES IN LONDON

In all the cities visited by Mr. Campbell, he saw nowhere such changes as in London, which is gradually being rebuilt in the central sections. In the Strand, a widening process is going on where leases are expiring and new buildings are being erected, and in Regent Street many large new business blocks are being built.

In France, Mr. Campbell stated he found everything booming, but the franc, and the only drawback to the prevailing conditions was the scarcity of labor. The decline of the franc is blamed on the farmers who are hoarding their money and are neither paying taxes nor circulating the gold. He said that to a casual observer, Paris appears to be the busiest city in the world. As the franc declined, the prices of goods increased and many of the manufacturers sold their goods on the dollar or the pound sterling value.

STYLES

Mr. Campbell said that there will be no marked changes in the styles for the Fall, but that skirts may be a little longer. Many novelties are in vogue in London and in Paris and the predominating color for afternoon and evening dresses will be black, although vivid colors are still fashionable.

POLICE PATROL FINDS LAST CAMP OF PROSPECTORS

TRACE SLENDER CLUES

At the second 100 miles of their journey they unearthed the trail of an Indian, one Louis Peterson, who was supposed to have seen McClair and Saunders in the Summer of 1923, at the outset of their ill-fated journey. After a long side trip into the wilds the officers found Louis Peterson, only to discover that it was not the missing men he had seen but two other trappers who have since returned.

Resuming the main trail, the patrol pushed its way. At Thutade Lake, 350 miles from their starting point, they picked up the trail of a Bear Lake Indian, Louis McClean. From the Indian, whom they traced and found, the police uncovered the fact that yet other Indians had seen McClair and Saunders and had worked for them in the Summer and Fall of 1923.

This information led the patrol to the western slope of Brothers Lake, where they found McClair's cabin, and where the two men had undoubtedly spent the Winter. Traces of a raft at the edge of a swollen rapids and signs of camp fires in a country where none but Indians have been for years, with the exception of the two missing men, continued the story.

At Brothers Lake the officers came on Peter Himodam, a Cassiar Indian, who had sighted the McClair-Saunders pack train about a year after the two men had entered the woods. Traces were not wanting that the pack animals had been shot and the men had wintered in the cabin on Brothers Lake. At that point, however, all trace of the two white men vanished.

With their food running perilously low and the snow growing deeper as they progressed, the officers made a careful note of all they had discovered and started the return trip. Again they had to ford swollen streams, shoot rapids on improvised rafts and cut their way through the bush on the 400 miles return journey, most of it across untrodden country.

So ended the routine Summer patrol of the B.C. Provincial Police at Prince George, undertaken as a simple matter of duty and carried out with fearless courage in the face of untold hardships.

QUEBEC WOMAN WAS MURDERED

Three Rivers, Quebec, Aug. 11.—The body of Rose Lavelle, forty-four, with the head battered in, was discovered to-day by her father, Louis de Vaudreuil, formerly of Ottawa, when he returned to his home at St. Etienne des Gres after a business trip to this city.

The murder apparently was committed yesterday during the father's absence. According to advices to Chief of Police Vachon here, the woman put up a desperate resistance, as the walls of the room in which the body was found were spattered with blood.

The police have taken into custody as a material witness a man living in the neighborhood.

R. R. WHITTEMORE TO DIE

Baltimore, Aug. 11.—Judge Robert F. Stanton, in city court to-day denied Richard Reese Whittemore a writ of habeas corpus. Application for the writ was made Monday in an effort to save Whittemore from the gallows. He is scheduled to be hanged to-morrow night for the slaying of Robert Holtman, a Maryland penitentiary guard.

Emerson, perhaps fore-seeing the amazing growth of the "barter-spirit," if not, indeed, its close dependence upon classified advertising, wrote: "Let us control the habit of expense. BIG OIL FIRE MENACES PART OF BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 11.—Damage of upwards of $250,000 was estimated to-day by officials to have been the toll of last night's spectacular oil, gasoline and benzol fire at the refining plant of the American Oil Company here. Eight firemen were seriously injured, but are expected to recover.

The ruins still were glowing to-day. As a consequence a thorough investigation has not yet been made.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 11.—Flames belched fitfully to-day from seven large tanks of burning gasoline, kerosene and benzol on the grounds of the American Oil Company's refining plant in South Baltimore, where late yesterday four terrific explosions rocked the neighborhood, dealt serious injuries to eight firemen and sent hundreds of families scurrying from their homes in fear of a general conflagration.

As the flames spread to the warehouse of the company, loaded with drums of lubricating oil and containing the offices of the firm, a great pall of dense black smoke spread over the section, drawing a crowd of 100,000 persons to the spectacle as the flames roared hundreds of feet into the sky. Company officials estimated 500,000 gallons of oil had been destroyed.

Because of the intense heat, firemen were unable to penetrate close enough to determine the cause of the fire.

SPREAD PREVENTED

Around an area equal in size to an entire city block, firemen threw a curtain of water that encompassed the seven tanks, each with a capacity of between 30,000 and 40,000 gallons, the warehouse and six tank cars, each loaded with 20,000 gallons of gasoline, to prevent a spread of the flames. Constant drenching of a 50,000-gallon tank of benzol a few hundred feet from the plants of the Standard Oil Company and the Consolidated Gas Company saved the tank and probably prevented a disaster.

Most of the lighting and telephone services in South Baltimore were cut off for the greater part of the night when the heat fused the wire circuits, and even destroyed trolley wires.

All of the injured firemen are expected to recover.

SEVERAL WOMEN CHOKED BY A MAN

P. M. Brown, in Custody in State of California, Believes He Killed One

San Bernardino, Cal., Aug. 11. — Philip M. Brown, who declares he attacked twelve women in Pacific coast cities, one of whom he believes he choked to death in San Francisco last May or June, was held in the county jail here to-day while efforts were being made by various means to connect him with scores of crimes committed throughout the West in the last year.

In a statement made to B. L. Simmons, a "train rider" of the Santa Fe Railway at Needles, where he was arrested for vagrancy August 5, Brown said he had attacked, chiefly by choking, one woman in San Francisco and several others in Los Angeles and vicinity.

QUESTIONED BY SHERIFF

Questioned by Sheriff Walter Shay of San Bernardino County, who brought him here to-day, Brown admitted he had attacked at least twelve women, including one in San Jose, one in Oakland, one in Santa Barbara and three in Los Angeles and nearby.

On request of the Seattle police department, Brown was asked if he had been in Seattle during May or June of this year, in an effort to solve a mysterious attack on a girl there. He told Sheriff Shay to-day he had not been in Seattle since December last year and that "I have attacked many women, but none in Seattle."

Record Entry List For Seniors' Fourth Golf Championship

One Hundred and Seventy-five Entries Expected For Tourney Next Week

Americans Will be Here in Great Force; Qualifying Round on Tuesday

One hundred and seventy-five veterans of the links will be here on Tuesday next week to trot around the course at the Victoria Golf Club in quest of the fourth championship of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association. This will be the largest entry list in the history of the competition.

Last night Capt. J. V. Perks, secretary of the organization, stated that 143 entries had been received, and that he knew many others were either in the mails or would be sent in prior to the closing time on Saturday.

Among those who will be here will be three men who have held the title. T. S. Lippy of Seattle, the present champion; Josiah Collins of Seattle, 1924 champion, and L. A. Lewis of New Westminster, 1923 champion and runner-up last year, have all sent in their entries, and will endeavor to once again reign as kingpin among the seniors.

SEATTLE STRONGEST

Seattle will have the largest contingent of golfers, while Victoria will be next. Vancouver, Portland and Spokane will be strongly represented, while Bellingham, Aberdeen, Walla Walla, Calgary, New Westminster and many other smaller towns will have their standard-bearers.

The qualifying round of eighteen holes will be held on Tuesday next, and the sixteen lowest scores, irrespective of class, will qualify for the championship proper. The eight next best scores in the "A" class, sixty-five years and over, will play for the "A" class championship, and same conditions hold for the play-off for the "B" class, sixty years and over and "C" class, fifty-five years and over.

The first and second rounds in the grand championship will be played on Wednesday with the semi-finals on Thursday, and the finals on Friday morning. On Friday afternoon the annual competition between Canada and the United States for the Nichol Cup, emblematic of the team championship, will be held. The cup is now held by the Americans.

HAS GROWN FAST

The Seniors Association has grown faster than any other sporting organization yet established in the Pacific Northwest. It was formed in Victoria four years ago, and now its membership has reached the 300-mark, with a waiting list. It is expected that at the annual meeting next week that the membership limit will be raised.

The number of competitors in the tournament has grown each year until this time the total has set a new record.

The seniors gain great enjoyment out of the competition, which gives them a chance to play in company where they are on a par. Victoria provided every means for the veterans to enjoy themselves, and so far they have refused to have the championship staged anywhere else.

His Honor the Lieut.-Goernor will entertain the seniors and their lady friends at a garden party at Government House on Wednesday afternoon, and on Friday night the annual banquet will be held at the Union Club.

Three Japanese Boxers Will Try Hand in U.S.

San Francisco, Aug. 11—Three of the leading boxers of Japan sailed from Yokohoma yesterday aboard the President Wilson for a pugilistic invasion of America. Advices to this effect were received by J. J. "Moose" Tausig, veteran trainer and manager of San Francisco, who will handle the Oriental leather-pushers during their sojourn on this side of the Pacific.

The trio includes T. Kawata, lightweight; K. Takashi, featherweight; and K. Nakamura, bantamweight, all of Tokio. They have been groomed for the past two years by Y. Watanabe, who fought in this country between ten and fifteen years ago, meeting such men as Willie Ritchie and Willie Hoppe. Watanabe is accompanying the trio.

Tausig said the Japanese would make their first appearance in Sacramento on September 3, later visiting other cities along the coast.

Dates Set For Main Golf Championships In Britain in 1927

St. Andrew's, Scotland, Aug. 11—The championship committee of the Royal and Ancient Club, announces that the 1927 British amateur golf championship tournament will be held on the course of the Royal Liverpool Club at Hoylake, beginning May 23. The open championship will be played over the old St. Andrew's course during the week of June 20.

VICTORIA LACROSSE TEAMS CANNOT PLAY FOR B.C. LAURELS

Vancouver, Aug. 11.—Vancouver Island lacrosse teams will not figure in either the senior or junior provincial playoffs here it has been decided by the B.C. Amateur Lacrosse Association.

The association dealt with a letter from Leonard Tait, president of the Victoria and District League, asking that the Native Sons, senior and junior teams, be allowed to participate in the playoffs.

It was decided to inform Mr. Tait that the application had come too late, all arrangements having been made, and that it would be against the constitution of the association to accept affiliation from the Victoria body at this late date, no application for affiliation having been made at the beginning of the season.

Life-savers From Mainland Coming For Competitions

Vancouver Will Send Strong Team to Compete Against Victorians Saturday

Vancouver, Aug. 11.—Eliminations in the Royal Life Saving Society competition took place on Tuesday evening at English Bay leading up to the finals with Victoria on Saturday next were staged. H. H. Duggan was first with 49 points and J. W. Curran, second with 45. They will meet Victoria in the final.

In the J. A. Lange Cup, J. A. Parson and F. H. Law receive byes. They meet Mrs. E. L. Steel and Miss Grace Wellburn of Victoria.

In the Desborough Cup competition, which is a time test, Victoria will be represented by A. Stott and J. Foubisher. Vancouver teams are P. Pantages and G. Watson, J. W. Curran and A. H. Swencisky, E. Lugin and P. Doekerill, Frank Lyons and H. Lacterman, H. Law and one to be selected.

Judges will be Alex Cotter and F. Burrows of this city, and V. Dunn of Victoria. Being winners last year, Messrs. Duggan and Parsons are not eligible to compete.

"Big Four" Likely To Be Given Call Again This Year

Tilden, Johnston, Richards and Williams Expected to Defend Davis Cup For U.S.

Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 11—R. Norris Williams and Vincent Richards, national titleholders, established their supremacy as a doubles team over Wm. T. Tilden and Wm. M. Johnston, by winning the second and deciding match of the series of the three Davis Cup team tests on the west side tennis courts yesterday.

Unlike the first triumphs over Tilden and Johnston on Monday at 6-4, 7-5, the champions were compelled to play almost two hours yesterday to obtain their victory. Terrific serving by Tilden, powerful driving by Johnston and vollying by the winning pair were the features.

TILDEN WON EASILY

Tilden easily defeated Lewis N. White of Austin, Texas, 6-1, 6-0. Johnston divided sets with George Lott of Chicago, the former winning the first at 6-4 and Lott taking the second at 6-3.

Darkness prevented further play at the end of the second set. Richards, who was to have opposed Edward G. Chandler of California was excused owing to a leg injury suffered at Rye, N.Y., several days ago.

The Davis Cup selection committee announced that the singles schedule arranged for the final day has been cancelled. There will be no doubles matches between the teams which met yesterday.

The action of the committee was interpreted as meaning that the "big four" again will be chosen to represent America in the challenge, but no plans have been made for selection of the singles players. Holcomb Ward, chairman of the committee said. Definite announcement of the selection of the defending team will not be made until after the East-West matches starting here Friday.

SOFT-BALL

The Y.M.C.A. lead the "A" section of the Softball League as the result of their 10-4 victory over the Esquimalt team last night.

Plimley and Ritchie beat the Y.M.C.A. "B" team 11-10 after eleven innings.

FOLEY vs. JOHNSTON

Toronto, Aug. 11—A titular bout between Vic Foley, Vancouver, and Jack Johnston, Toronto, for the bantamweight boxing championship of Canada, will be staged shortly in either Vancouver or Toronto, it is stated here to-day. Jack Allen, Manager of Foley, has refused "Playfair" Brown's terms for a bout here, and a Vancouver promoter is said to be interested.

Yankees Seem To Be In Fine Position To Land Another Flag

Cleveland Has Almost Impossible Job to Overtake Them, Way They Are Going

Cincinnati Beaten While Both Pittsburgh and St. Louis Win Their Matches

New York, Aug. 11—Fifteen games in the West, widely regarded as a crucial test, have left the Yankees well ahead of the field in the American League. Ten victories against five defeats show on the Huggins record for the invasion and only one more tour stands between the present leaders and another league pennant.

Yesterday Detroit took another shot at the leaders and won a seven-inning game 5-3. If the Yankees win 22 more games and lose the same number, the Indians must register 30 victories against 11 losses to tie them.

Williams's homer gave St. Louis a victory over the Red Sox, 6-4, coming in the eighth with one on.

The Athletics beat the White Sox 4-3 after 11 innings.

GIANTS SECURE

Brooklyn lost to the Pirates 10-2, the ninth straight defeat for the Dodgers.

Boston lost to St. Louis Cardinals 3-1, the Cardinals' run in the fourth was the first scored off the Braves' pitchers in four games.

Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 10-8. Curtis Walker of the Reds, hit a homer in the fifth with two on.

Lillian Cannon Going After Gertrude's Record on Monday; Two More Swimmers Lose Out

Cape Gris Nez, Aug. 11—The turbulent English Channel again has turned back two persons who aspired to swim it. They are Mme. Jean Sion, a French woman, and Omar Perrault, a Canadian.

Starting from Cape Gris Nez at 10.15 o'clock last night, they swam until four o'clock this morning, when the heavy seas and rain squalls compelled them to abandon their attempt to get across to Dover.

Miss Clare Belle Barreton, New Rochelle, N.Y., plans to start on her second attempt Sunday, and Miss Lillian Cannon, of Baltimore, Monday. Miss Cannon claims she is in fit condition to beat Gertrude Ederle's record of 14 hours 31 minutes.

Langlie, Canadian Junior Champion, Tennis Surprise

Lad From Seattle Who Played Here Few Weeks Ago Defeats Seeded Player

Chicago, Aug. 11—Seven of the eight seeded players advanced to the fourth round of the national junior tennis singles yesterday, only one upset being recorded.

The reversal was the defeat of Harry L. Johnson Jr., of Waban, Mass., third ranking junior last year, by Howard Langlie, of Seattle, Canadian junior champion, 6-1, 1-6, 6-2. The coast lad's powerful grounds strokes were the deciding factor.

One of the favorites, John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Calif., met with tough opposition, but finally triumphed over Wm. Clines of Louisville, 9-7, 6-8, 6-3. Clines had set point in the opening set but Doeg came through. Doeg lost the second set through errors.

The rest of the seeded stars, Berkeley Bell of Austin, Tex.; Emmett Pare, Chicago; Bob Seller, of San Francisco; Donald Strachan, Philadelphia, and Ed Jacobs of Baltimore, were victors, although Pare and Strachan were forced to the limit to win.

Young Liberals Are Vancouver Champions

Vancouver, Aug. 11.—Young Liberals are champions of the senior amateur baseball league for 1926. They annexed the title here last evening when they registered their third straight victory over the Elks.

The score was 8-0.

Esquimalt Tennis

Miss Bryden and J. Matson were forced to three sets to win from Miss B. Harris and C. Turner, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, in the mixed doubles of the Esquimalt tennis tournament.

In the ladies' singles consolation Mrs. Kent-Fawkes won from Mrs. Aylmer, 3-6, 6-4, 6-0.

HOW TO SWIM

by Lillian Cannon

How Hands Are Held in Breast Stroke

It is not a good stroke for speed, but for long distances it is excellent.

It rests one to change his stroke while on a long swim and a change from another stroke to a breast stroke gives relief from the monotony of one series of movements over a long period.

The nose is kept well out of the water at all times during the breast stroke, and that too is a relief from swimming-breathing, although one should have the habit of correct breathing while swimming.

However, it is a relief for those who have not perfected breathing.

Ironing Out Little Trouble In Path Of Heavyweight Battle

Dempsey Being Kidded Along and Will Likely Get What He Wants in the End

Wills' Peculiar Contract With Dempsey Results in His Being Passed up

New York, Aug. 11—Taking the initiative in an effort to clear away remaining obstacles in the way of holding the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight title fight at the Yankee Stadium, September 16, Boxing Commissioner George E. Brower to-day called a special session of the state athletic commission for Thursday morning to which he also invited the members of the license committee.

With Dempsey and Tunney applying in person for licenses to box in New York State, the license committee yesterday pondered over the case so carefully that a three-hour session was necessary. When the smoke cleared it was found that Tunney's license had been approved. Dempsey's application was "deferred" until he shall have complied with the rules of the commission, but reviews and interpretations made this ruling appear less harsh than at first indicated.

An explanation of its decision by the license committee chairman, Col. John J. Phelan, made it clear that only technicalities of arranging contracts stand in the way of issuing Dempsey's permit. As if to make the gesture of assurance toward Dempsey more clear, the committee also issued a permit to Gene Normile, the champion's business representative, to act as a second.

IT WILL SOON BE KNOWN

Stripped of its technical elements, the license committee's action means that Dempsey will be granted a license as soon as the formal contracts for a bout with Tunney are prepared, in accordance with the commission's rules and regulations and submitted for approval. Since the commission, by a two to one vote, already has gone on record as favoring the match, this will be only a formality.

Last night promoter Tex Rickard had the necessary papers prepared and signed by Tunney. Since Dempsey is not yet licensed, he cannot attach his signature to them until they are laid before the commission and then the license committee. The entire matter may be consummated to-day at a special session of these official bodies, both of which are understood to be ready to act quickly to clear up the situation and permit arrangements for the fight to go ahead.

APPEARED IN TURN

Yesterday's developments, while they ended in the apparent certain prospect that the title battle will be held here, passed through a series fo dramatic and at times confusing stages during deliberations that lasted for three hours in the office of the athletic commission, alternately thrusting Dempsey, Tunney and Harry Wills into the limelight.

Wills was the last of the three fighting men to appear on the scene, but he played an important part, even though the result was his virtual elimination from the role of challenger which he has occupied for so long and which has stood a stumbling block for so long to Dempsey in this state.

The contract which Wills signed with Dempsey at Niles, Mich., last September was the vehicle which served apparently to shelve the negro challenger's ambitions, as well as to open the way for Dempsey's return to good standing in this state. Called unexpectedly and appearing alone, Wills was shown Dempsey's copy of this contract. The negro confirmed his signature and also admitted, under questioning that while he did not himself receive any money, his manager, Paddy Mullins, did, an amount supposed to be $55,000.

In view of this, Col. Phelan explained, the license committee took the position that Dempsey already had accepted the challenge of Wills, even though the terms of the Niles contract called for a no-decision bout, "sometime before January 1, 1927," in one of five specified middle western states.

NO ONE BARRED

Since this contract did not bar a principal engaging other opponents in the meantime, the champion, in Col. Phelan's opinion, is thus free to battle Tunney or anyone else, so long as local rules are complied with.

Dempsey was in an outer corridor at the moment that Wills arrived and the rivals shook hands just before the negro stepped into the committee meeting.

Tillicums Can Land Honors by Defeating Spencers To-night

By winning their game to-night from Spencers the Tillicums can win the second half of the Commercial Baseball League and go into the play-off against Sidney for the title. The game will be played at the Royal Athletic Park, with the first ball being thrown at 6.15 o'clock and Harold Featherstone as the umpire.

The Tillicums have not been beaten in the second half of the series, and as Spencers have not won a game the experts figure that the leaders should come through safely. A loss for the Tillicums would put them back in a tie with the C.P.R., who have lost but one game.

Donaldson will pitch for Spencers and Campbell will hurl for the Tillicums.

Suzanne's Tour to Get no Sanction of U.S. Tennis Body

New York, Aug. 11.—Suzanne Lenglen's projected tour of the United States as a professional will receive no sanction from the United States Lawn Tennis Association, President Jones W. Mercereau indicated yesterday.

In connection with Mlle. Lenglen's announced desire to play Helen Wills during the tour, the National women's champion said she would be pleased to oppose Suzanne again.

"It all depends on the action of the tennis officials, however," Miss Wills said.

Close Three-set Matches As Well As Many Surprises

Handicap Tournament at Victoria Tennis Club Provides Good Tennis

Yesterday's play in the Victoria Tennis Club's annual handicap tournament was of a high order. Close three-set matches were the rule in all the events.

Don Campbell and McLaughlin provided the feature match of the afternoon, defeating Meredith and Mainguy in a three-net battle. After dropping the first set.

Jones and Martin also had to go the three sets before defeating List and Whittaker. The former pair lost the first set 6-2, and were down 4-2 in the second set before they rallied and won out.

Norman Martin and Dr. Robertson created quite a surprise in the handicap singles by defeating Dick Edghill and R. Berrill respectively. Young Martin is a junior of considerable promise and should go a long way in this event.

MORE SURPRISES

In the ladies' handicap singles Mrs. McDonald defeated Helen Campbell 6-4, 6-2, and Miss Bass defeated Jean Campbell 6-1, 6-3. The defeat of these two girls was quite a surprise.

Only two matches were played in the men's open singles, R. Berrill defeating Wickett 2-6, 6-3, 6-1, and Fred Pollard defeating Roland Christy 6-4, 8-6. There were no upsets in the other events, although play was very close. Full results follow:

Men's Open Singles

R. Berrill defeated D. Wickett, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1.

F. C. Pollard defeated R. G. Christy, 6-4, 8-6.

Ladies' Open Singles

Men's Handicap Singles

R. F. Leslie (+15) defeated S. Wright (+30), 6-0, 6-3.

R. Berrill (scr.) defeated Dr. H. Robertson (+15), 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Ladies' Handicap Singles

Miss Bass (+15) defeated Miss Jean Campbell (+15), 6-1, 6-3.

Miss Hambley (scr.) defeated Miss D. Rines (+15.3), 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

Miss L. Bryden (+15) defeated Miss K. Hall (+15), 6-2, 6-3.

Mrs. McDonald (—15) defeated Miss H. Campbell (+15.3), 6-4, 6-2.

Men's Handicap Singles

Beckton and Sterry (+15.3) defeated Slingsby and Gray (+30), 6-2, 6-4.

Pollard and Cabeldu (scr.) defeated Diespecker and Gonnason (+30), 6-2, 6-2.

Campbell and McLoughlin (scr.) defeated Meredith and Mainguy (scr.), 8-10, 6-4, 6-4.

S. Jones and Eric Martin (—½15) defeated Whittaker and List (+3-6 15), 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Ladies' Handicap Doubles

Miss Mason and Miss Lawson (—15.3) defeated Mrs. Beckton and Mrs. E. P. Gillespie (+3-6 15), 7-5, 5-7, 6-2.

Mrs. Verley and Miss Miller (—30) defeated Mrs. H. T. and Miss Matson (+½15), 6-3, 6-1.

Mixed Handicap Doubles

Miss Parr and G. Cunningham (—30) defeated Miss Cass and Elderton (scr.), 6-3, 6-1.

Miss P. Jackson and Mogg (scr.) defeated Miss Gordon and Wright (+30), 6-2, 6-2.

Miss Crease and F. B. Starkey (+15) defeated Major and Mrs. Engledue (+15), 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs. Leeming and Walton (+3-6 15) defeated Miss Bass and Diespecker (+15.3, 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Wilson and Leech (—½15) defeated Miss Matson and Fort (+15) 10-8, 7-5.

PIGEON RACING

The Victoria District Racing Pigeon Club held the fourth young bird race of the season from Chehalis, Wash., a distance of 125 miles.

The birds were liberated at 10 a.m., weather cloudy; at home, cloudy, heavy haze.

The first bird, "Raravis," arrived at the loft of W. R. Tait at 3.25.17, flying time being 5 hours 25 minutes 17 seconds.

	Flying Time
1—W. R. Tait, "Raravis"	5.25.17
2—R. Dickinson, "Surprise"	5.25.33
3—W. Bryan, "Perhaps So"	5.30.09
4—J. Grimston, "Snicker"	5.30.49
5—R. Barrie, "Beverly"	5.35.57

Dickinson won the nomination pool. R. Barrie had the misfortune of not being able to get his clock started when his bird arrived and lost some considerable time.

Jasper Park Course Will Be Scene of a Great Golf Tourney

Ambitious Programme Arranged For Next Month is Proving Very Attractive

Golfers From Most Provinces and Some States Will Attend; Victorians Going

Jasper Park Lodge, Alta., Aug. 11—One of the most interesting and ambitious golf tournaments of the western Canada season is that arranged by the Canadian National Railways and to be played over the Jasper Park Lodge course during the week of September 11 to 18. A handicap match against par over 18 holes and an inter-provincial and state competition over 18 holes, together with play for the unique Jasper Park Lodge silver totem pole trophy, are the main events on the programme that has already attracted many well known amateurs from various parts of Canada and the Pacific Coast States.

The totem pole trophy is something entirely new in golfing awards. It is a replica of the pole displayed in the window of the company's office in New York and stands about two feet high on a square base. On all of the upper four corners of the base there is a silver bar, modeled after those which are frequently seen in the vicinity of the lodge. This trophy is bonded and will be sent to the club of the winner for a period of one year. The winner each year gets a replica for his personal ownership.

Five days will be occupied in the play for this trophy. The qualifying round of 18 holes will be on Tuesday, September 14. The first round, in all of the flights, takes place the following day, the second round on the Thursday, semi-finals on the Friday and the finals on Saturday, September 18. All rounds will commence in the morning. Exhibition matches will be played by some of the best professionals in Canada and the United States, a number having accepted invitations to be present.

CONDITIONS FOR OTHER MATCHES

In the handicap match against par, which takes place on the opening Day, Saturday, September 11, entrants are allowed to arrange their pars and are entitled to three-quarters of medal handicap.

This competition also gives those entering the event an opportunity to study the course which is described by George S. Lyon, senior champion for many years, as one of the finest tests of championship golf on the continent.

The inter-provincial and state competition which is to be held on Monday, September 13, will comprise teams of six players from provinces or states, and the total of medal round of all contestants for 18 holes will be counted. There will be a challenge team trophy and in addition individual prizes to team members. Strong teams from Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina and Vancouver are entering this competition. Inquiries have also been received from Victoria, Seattle, Portland and Los Angeles.

The ladies have not been forgotten and several putting competitions for interesting prizes have been arranged. Also plans have been completed to hold a competition to set the ladies' par for the course and in this play some of the prominent women who will be playing in the Canadian open and closed championship at Winnipeg a few days earlier will enter.

COURSE IN GOOD SHAPE

The Jasper Park Lodge course is now in excellent shape, while other parts of the country have been suffering by dry weather Jasper has been enjoying ideal Summer conditions and the course has responded wonderfully. On only one fairway do Winter rules govern, and this restriction will be removed before the competition starts. Many prominent golfers have played the course this year and without exception highest praise has been accorded every feature of it.

Added to its playing features are its scenic qualities, probably without rival anywhere in the world. Every tee and every green provides a magnificent view of the great ranges of mountains encircling the Athabasca valley, while on the course itself the rustic tee boxes, seats, shelters and unique drinking facilities lend a picturesqueness that is not to be found on any other course anywhere.

B.C. Marksmen Still Doing Well in Shoot For Ontario Prizes

Port Credit, Ont., Aug. 11.—All of the British Columbia marksmen are shooting high scores in the Ontario Rifle Association meet at Long Branch ranges, Toronto.

In the City of Toronto match, with the possible of 120 two stages, Holland, Wallis and Cobbett 115, Gardener 112, Ruffell 111. First stage, possible 70, Britton 68, Shosbree 62, Wilkinson 60, were all in the money. Possibles were registered at 200 yards and 800 yards by Holland, at 600 by Cobbett, and at 500 by Wallis. In the Cornwall and York match with a possible of 70, Holland scored 68, Gardiner 67, Shrosbee 65, Ruffell, Wallis and Britton 63, Cobbett 60, and Wilkinson 59. In the aggregates to date with a possible of 175, Gardiner scored 165, Holland 164, Wallis 163; Cobbett, Ruffell, Britton, Shrosbree 160, and Wilkinson 152.

SOCIETY TOASTS DICK BARTHELMESS IN "JUST SUPPOSE"

The filming of "Just Suppose," which is seen at the Playhouse Theatre this week, was one grand party for Richard Barthelmess. The Inspiration Company spent a week or so at Southampton, Long Island, taking polo scenes. Many society people turned out to play extras in the picture.

The Southampton residents were very generous about allowing their estates to be used, and Dick was invited to more social affairs than he had time to attend. Then he went to Philadelphia, where more beautiful scenes were taken at the famous Widener estate, and again Dick was treated like the handsome Prince that he is.

"THE LOST WORLD" IS GREAT FILM NOW AT COLUMBIA

"The Lost World," at the Columbia Theatre, comes nearest being a photoplay of absolute universal appeal than any previous picture, according to Manager Clark.

"When those prehistoric dinosaurs burst loose on the screen the small boy forgets the biggest circus he ever saw, and yesterday an old man walked out forgetting his cane," he says.

"High school students come to see it because it helps them in their study of paleontology. The man interested in science and the average adventure-loving man are alike interested to see a beast of 10,000,000 years ago imperil the lives of Twentieth Century folk. And for those who love romance, there is Bessie Love loved by two men, Lewis Stone and Lloyd Hughes, both striving to save her from the fangs of a creature as big as seven elephants.

It required First National and Watterson R. Rothacker over seven years to bring these dinosaurs of 100,000 centuries ago to life in a modern photoplay.

BUCCANEERING IN "THE BLACK PIRATE" MOST REALISTIC

A roistering tale is "The Black Pirate" at the Dominion Theatre, a glorious riot of adventure. To the colorful exploits of Douglas Fairbanks and a pirate crew has been added the most perfect Technicolor yet flashed upon the screen. Colored pictures, no doubt about it, are here. "The Black Pirate" proves that it can heighten, instead of distracting from, the vividness of a thrill.

Never did more villainous crew board the peaceful merchantman than that headed by Douglas Fairbanks. With a gay "yo ho" and a muttered curse, he takes us back to the old dark days, when buccaneers sailed the Spanish Main.

Treasure chests in secret hiding places, sparkling water and gray sky, these are the background for a swash-buckling adventure story. Then there are alarums and excursions and gallant, incredible rescues.

And there is Doug, too, in a part he must have loved. When he's not skimming up the rigging he's fighting duels, swimming through green-blue waters or taking a vessel single handed. That exploit, of course, is the very essence of Fairbanks. Swarming up the slippery sides, he is a pirate crew in himself. He does every one of the magnificent, unbelievable things that little boys dream of.

GEORGE OLSEN IS DETECTIVE-CROOK AT THE COLISEUM

In the Percy Hutchison success, "Stop Thief" at the Coliseum this week, George O. Olsen as Jack Doogan, a crook, masquerading as a detective, does especially fine work. Continuously getting into difficulties in his efforts to purloin the wedding gifts of the Professor's daughter, Madge (Gertrude Burton) he cleverly extricated himself from almost impossible situations, with the cunning assistance of his sweetheart and accomplice Nell (Ruth Hamilton) who is employed as a housemaid. Doogan, the cause of a great deal of trouble and suspicion involving father, bridegroom, bride and guests is accepted as the kind and helpful friend of all.

"GREAT DECEPTION" IS FILM VERSION OF GIBBS' NOVEL

The photoplay is the film version of George Gibbs's celebrated novel, "The Yellow Dove." Ben Lyon, Aileen Pringle, Sam Hardy, Basil Rathbone, Charlotte Walker, Amelia Summerville and other players of consequence appear in the cast.

The direction is by Howard Higgin.

MOVIE-ANA

Hollywood, Aug. 11.—There is one man in this village of heartbreaks who doesn't care for all the "bunk" broadcast about him by enterprising publicity men. He is Ronald Coleman. "They have had me in France for four years as everything from a lieutenant to a colonel. As a matter of fact I was only a private and spent but two months at the front," he says.

The old, old story of "when a man bites a dog, it's news" comes to light again with this story told by Lew Cody. Lew claims absolutely that he was the only witness of the incident:

Norman Kerry was walking along a Beverly Hills street with head in air when a little poodle dog rushed out and started yip-yipping at him. Enranged by Kerry's continued haughtiness, the dog made a grab for his ankle. Uttering words of which Will Hays wouldn't approve, Kerry stooped down, picked up the pup and bit his hind leg. "Now take that, you-cur," he snarled.

"The population of the United States is approximately 100,000,000 people, most of them playwrights," said Daniel Frohman some years ago.

Whatever percentage the word "most" covered in this observation, an item concerning the prices paid for the motion picture rights to plays and stories which is now making the rounds of the newspapers throughout the country ought to bring the percentage up to ninety—with the remaining ten per cent consisting of novelists.

Cradle Snatchers	$ 75,000
What Price Glory	100,000
Padlocked	90,000
An American Tragedy	90,000
Wanderer of the Wasteland	90,000
Mannequin	50,000

DIRECTORS, WRITERS RISE FROM RANKS OF ACTORS

Hollywood, Aug. 11.—When they fall or tire of one job in Hollywood they turn to another.

Actors become directors—actresses become writers. And a few make good.

There is not a more heart-breaking occupation than playing before a movie camera. Humanity is not considered there. The rise to the pinnacle of success is a quick one for some—the short reign is one of luxury and enchantment—but the descent into oblivion is even more rapid.

Allen Hale is a director who made his start in the ranks of actors. Hale became quite prominent through his roles in "The Covered Wagon" and "Robin Hood." To-day he is directing his fourth picture, "Risky Business," for Cecil B. DeMille. Another of the DeMille clan is Rupert Julian. Julian carved his niche in the hall of actors while playing opposite Marguerite Clark when she was at the height of her career. Now he wields a megaphone and is one of filmland's best directors.

ONCE PERFECT LOVER

Lou Tellegen was once "the perfect lover" of the screen. Then came Rudolph Valentino, Antonio Moreno and Ricardo Cortez with their new style of love making. He soon will start directing "My Wife's Honor," a story of Monte Carlo, which he helped write.

Irving Cummings and Harry Beaumont are other notables who have shifted from before the camera to behind it.

Two of Hollywood's most widely known women writers made their bow into the movie industry as "extra girls" for D. W. Griffith back in 1913. Mary Pickford and Blanche Sweet were starring on the same lot then.

Jeanie MacPherson and Bess Meredith are the scribes. Both were making from $3.50 to $5 a week in those days. Miss MacPherson is now head of the scenario department of the DeMille studio. Bess Meredith made her mark by writing "Ben Hur," "The Sea Beast" and "Don Juan" for the screen. She is now a special writer for Warner Brothers.

RAPID RISE

June Mathis, whose annual salary of about $150,000 is reputed to make her the highest paid feminine writer in Hollywood, also was one of the great mob of under-paid actresses in the early days of motion pictures.

To Lois Weber goes a distinction not enjoyed by any other woman in the cinema village. She is a writer and a director—and, of course, an ex-actress. She is now getting ready to start directing "Uncle Tom's Cabin," starring Rosetta and Vivian Duncan of stage fame.

NEW NAME

Little is heard of "Fatty" to-day—his name is but a memory, though he is again successful and happy in his unprententious home presided over by his wife, formerly Doris Deane. Arbuckle is now directing for one of the largest motion picture companies in Hollywood under the nom de plume of William Goodrich. He has a fat contract and is making pictures that are popular with the same public that made him an outcast.

So the wheel of chance has not stopped on the lucky number for all. These I have mentioned are but a chosen few. Others have passed on to—no one knows where.

BOOKS

James Oliver Curwood

"IN my judgment it is the best book of its kind since Cooper wrote 'The Deerslayer,' and if you like this type of story I think you will enjoy 'The Black Hunter.'"

This is from the publisher's note forwarding for review a copy of James Oliver Curwood's first historical novel, "The Black Hunter," just issued in book form.

Readers may differ as to their favorite historical novel. But certainly the latter part of the commendation is beyond cavil—"If you like this type of story, you will enjoy 'The Black Hunter.'"

Curwood has the good fortune to have builded for himself a perfectly definite position—like Harold Bell Wright, H. L. Mencken, olives, year-round cold baths and red haired girls. People do not like them just moderately well. Readers may be classified as those who like Curwood's type of story and those who do not. This notice will be of no interest to such of the latter. The former are numerous enough to make up the great majority of the newspaper public.

A COLORFUL SETTING

The historical setting of "The Black Hunter" is New France—the old French Canada of Quebec and the upper reaches of Lake Champlain. The story happens during the first rumblings of the French and Indian War—the war which was to raise the flag of England to supremacy in America. The action reaches down to include a picture of Braddock's defeat and the retreat of the Virginias under young George Washington.

There is evidence of painstaking study of the period, and many a bit of old time quaintness and color has been brought out to ornament the story. The historical motivation centres around the little-remembered misrule and corruption of the last French governors.

Here is the story of the love of David Rock, a young Daniel Boone of the old North woods, for the fair Anne St. Denis, daughter of a fighting seigneur, and herself a pious student in a convent school at Quebec.

MYSTERY AND INTRIGUE

The shockingly evil and hypocritical Francois Bigot, last ruler of New France, plots to betray Anne and steal her away from David. In the background and usually present when wanted is the Black Hunter, "a weird and mysterious wanderer of the wilderness, a weaver of romance and tragedy, not quite forgotten even to this day."

And there you have the principal threads, which get themselves tangled and knotted, some of them needing to be cut, but at the end all finding their just places in the tapestry of romance. There is fillip of action or heart's desire in practically every chapter, and at the end is an Indian onslaught to tinge a very large canvas with crimson. Curwood shows here that men are men under other coats than merely the Royal Northwest Mounted. It will delight every Curwood fan.

IRVIN COBB'S publisher, Doran, boils the author down compactly and comprehensively in his latest book, "Prose and Cons." It is really "An Outline of Cobb." The prose is of Cobb's which has appeared in recent magazines, and the cons—likewise in prose—are the funny dissertations and recollections into which he occasionally bursts.

Any visitor from Mars reading this book should be able to recognize a Cobb story instantly on any newsstand or he might return to his planet and write a fair analysis of America's 2,000,000 circulation brand of humor. Here is Judge Priest and the well known Kentucky scene, and also here are negro stories, western stories and Paris stories. The preserving of the "cons" in book form will be the portion of the book for which readers will give greatest thanks.

Two Gunmen Fought In Chicago Street

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Two gunmen threw Michigan Avenue traffic here into turmoil yesterday when they exchanged a dozen shots. At the Ninth Street intersection of the motor congested boulevard one of the men opened fire from behind an automobile which he used as a shield. The other returned the fire as motorists dodged and brought traffic into a jam and pedestrians fled to cover. One suspect supposed to have been one of the duellists was seized by a park policeman, but the other escaped.

"Kianager" Latest Melting Pot Product! It Sings Tenor and is Mostly all Legs!

The "kianager"—first animal ever known to science

NEW YORK Aug. 1 (By Mail)—The successor of "Zip," the late what-is-it, has come to the Bronx zoo.

For want of any other name, Director W. Reid Blair calls it a "kianager." Blair evolved this name because papa is a giang and mether, an onager.

No such cross of jackass strains ever could be effected, many zoologists held. Blair and Keeper William Wright thought otherwise. And their appeal to the stork was not in vain.

Towering some two feet in height, the weird bit of animal architecture fully appreciates his importance to zoology, it's plain.

He frisks pertly about the lot in which he is confined, and bullies Keeper Wright into standing by when chow call sounds—mama onager having proved a reluctant source of sustenance.

The zoo "Zip" is mostly legs so far. Still, about his head there are lines of nobility in the making, set off by incipient chin whiskers.

The kiang which sired the youngster comes from the wilds of Tibet. The Onager hails from India or Persia or somewhere.

Sleep is Most Important Factor In Child Life

The essentials of healthy baby life are air, nourishment and sleep, and sleep is by no means the least important of the three.

A normal baby can usually be trusted to manage his own programme of sleeping, but when abnormal conditions exist mothers should know how to meet these conditions and secure the proper amount of rest for the infant.

During the first two weeks of life a healthy baby will sleep nearly all the time. He will wake only long enough to nurse. Even during the second month a healthy child will sleep about twenty hours of the twenty-four.

HIS OWN CRIB

One serious mistake that commonly is made by parents is allowing a baby to sleep with adults. In circumstances of extreme poverty, this often is unavoidable, but usually the mistake is prompted by love for the child or ignorance of the dangers.

It is bad enough for two people of the same age and physical condition to occupy the same bed, but for a child to sleep with an adult is distinctly harmful.

There are some mothers who believe that the younger the baby the less air space in sleeping quarters will he require. Consequently the younger children are given the smallest rooms. This is a serious mistake. For the growing child needs as much fresh air as does the adult.

To carry a child into a room which is brightly lighted is not the best method to employ in putting the child to sleep. If your baby goes to sleep in a room flooded with light it is merely because it has developed the power of habit for it has been demonstrated that releasing the sense of sight to sleep is most difficult under such conditions.

Any baby will sleep best in a dimly lighted or dark room. Quiet is also important. These are ideal sleeping conditions that should be guaranteed to every baby.

Not all mothers appreciate the fact that an odor will act as a potent disturber of sleep. A mild odor will not always waken a child but most children will display restlessness when odors are present in a sleeping room or are brought into close proximity to the sleeper. Even an odor of perfume may cause vomiting on the part of the baby, especially if the baby's stomach is not in good order.

Another frequent cause of sleeplessness is hunger. Most babies will not sleep until hunger has been satisfied and although regularity in feeding is of the utmost importance, a little milk given sometimes off schedule does less harm than the sleeplessness and fretting which baby experiences while waiting for the scheduled feeding time.

Mothers should be careful, however, to use good judgment in this matter in order that the habit of feeding at off hours may not be developed. In case the baby shows an unusual appetite and a desire for food at off schedule times a doctor should be consulted.

10-Day Tube FREE
Mother!

DO you want your child to have prettier teeth now, and better protection from tooth and gum troubles in later life?

Mail the coupon then for a 10-day tube of Pepsodent, free. See what leading dentists urge mothers to use as science's latest attainment in tooth and gum care.

* * *

You will notice a film on your child's teeth. That's a frequent danger sign—an invitation for tooth and gum troubles. The same stubborn film that you can feel by running your tongue across your own teeth. You must combat it. Ordinary dentifrices don't fight it successfully.

Film is the greatest enemy of tooth health. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it and imperil both teeth and gums. The acid that leads to early decay forms. Old-type methods failed to combat it. Men of science undertook to discover an effective combatant.

Now in Pepsodent, two new combatants are embodied—combatants approved by highest dental authority. It curdles the film, gently removes it; then firms the gums. It keeps the teeth whiter, cleaner, more sparkling. It is the modern scientific method for better tooth protection. Insist upon it. Get a tube today. Mail the coupon.

THESE WOMEN

Morton laughed, but made no comment. They completed their shopping without Parrish's aid, and only when they got home, and after his frantic telephone message, did he learn what had become of them.

"Lesson number three in the art of living," Morton told him, before he hung up the receiver. "Don't give orders to the ladies."

+ + +

"I feel as if I hadn't seen you for an age!" Nona cried, clasping his arm.

Mr. Sunshine had a grievance. "All the time last night, and all the time this morning after we got up, she didn't talk about anything whatsoever but you," he protested.

"Wasn't that an attractive subject?" Morton asked.

"I expect you wonder why I invited myself to come along," Abe said, "but I'm going to stay at the hotel."

"Shall I?" asked Nona, doubtfully. Morton took her hand and tucked it under his arm.

"Audrey and I have agreed you can't stay anywhere else," he said.

Mr. Sunshine went on: "You know this chance Nona has in London. Well, I was afraid you'd crab it. That's why I came along, to see you didn't."

"You aren't playing fair, Abe," she said. "We agreed that we should take this up with him together, and tell him just what's happening."

Mr. Sunshine made a gesture with both hands, palms upward. "But ain't I taking it up with him, together?" he demanded.

Nona laughed, and settled back. She said no more until they reached the Morton home. The driver carried their bags into the house, where Audrey awaited them on the front porch. She was standing up, and for the first time had abandoned the loose garb of an invalid.

She gave one hand to Nona, and the other to the congratulatory Abe.

"You weren't expecting me," said the latter, shaking Audrey's hand vigorously. "But I wasn't expecting myself, either."

"Dear," Nona said. "I'm so glad you're getting well again!"

"So am I," said Mr. Sunshine. "You can help me, maybe."

"Miss Morton," he said, "we've come here to decide, is Nona going to marry Mr. Morton, standing there, or is she going to go to London and make a fortune?"

CHAPTER LVIII

Morton had been standing in the background during this conversation. Now he stepped forward. "Abe," he remarked, "you're a confounded, embarrassing nuisance."

He took the smaller man by the arm, and steered him into the house. "You come in, to your room, and we'll arbitrate this difficulty later."

Nona followed them, while Audrey sat in a chair outside the open door.

"Take that room beyond Audrey's," Morton said to Nona. "The maid is taking your bag in there. Abe, you come with me."

Mr. Sunshine followed him into the great, airy guest-room at the farther end of the hall. He looked at the latticed windows, that opened in three sides of the room, and at the bright, cheerful upholstery of the chairs.

He sat on the edge of the deep, soft bed. "If I'd known it was going to be anything like this, I'd have brought Lois here on my honeymoon," he contirued.

Morton leaned against the broad dresser.

"Abe," he said, "I cut you short downstairs there, when you were talking about Nona's plans. We don't have to go down right away. Tell me just what you're thinking about."

Mr. Sunshine removed his hat, which he had worn since his arrival, and laid it on the bed. Drawing toward him a low chair, he placed his feet upon its tufted cushion.

"Mr. Morton," he said, "it's like this. You know, Nona was simply a wow in that show."

Morton nodded.

"Well," Abe continued, "this producer, he put her on in just a Summer show, you know. It was a knockout—a riot. But he is producing another one over in London. He is using the same music and script, with some improvements. I made em," Mr. Sunshine added, with satisfaction. "I found the new music, and the new lyrics, and I bet the Prince of Wales goes there every night for three months' running!"

He turned, and swung his feet up on the bed, resting himself comfortably against the satin pads that descended from the enameled wood above him.

"Well, Nona is to be the absolute star over there. The producer, he's got a pretty good girl, to take Nona's place for the rest of the Summer run in Seattle. It is her chance of a lifetime. It's a good show—you know that. You know Nona's got the stuff. If she makes a hit over there, and you know she will, when she comes back to America, her fortune's made. Mine is, too!"

"We'll both be rich," he continued. Then his face fell. "Of course, she'll be rich if she marries you, but what will I get out of that?"

He looked expectantly at Morton. Morton smiled.

"She might give you a commission on her marriage," he suggested.

Mr. Sunshine received this seriously. "I'm no schatchen," he said. "I don't want to make any money out of being a marriage broker. I'm in the theatrical business, and I've got a big star. I don't want to lose her."

"All of 'em going strong," Abe assured him. "Every one a hit and a knockout."

He arose from the bed, and thrust his thumbs into the slack of his shirt, at the armpits. "Besides being personal manager for Nona, I've got the biggest lot of singers and dancers in choruses in Seattle, except one or two," he said, proudly.

Morton reached over and drew him fro mths bed. "We'd better go downstairs, now," he suggested. "I suppose Nona's there with Audrey."

Together they descended the steps, and found the girls chatting in the yard, before one of Audrey's flower beds.

"Has Abe been tampering with the jury?" Nona inquired.

Audrey looked at her questioningly.

"Abe is simply bound that I shall go to London," Nona told her. "I wouldn't promise until I had talked with Mr. Morton—and you."

Audrey smiled. "Principally Mr. Morton!" she surmised.

The four of them strolled around the grounds, Nona and Mr. Sunshine admiring the flowers, the clipped hedges, and the rare shrubbery that Morton had imported for Audrey's delight, from Japan and China.

The neighbors next door were in their yard, and Morton and Audrey gave them a pleasant greeting.

"Do you know them?" Mr. Sunshine inquired.

"Certainly," Morton said. "Why?"

Mr. Sunshine looked about him. "Well, I was born and brought up in Seattle, and never yet have I known the people that lived in the next flat."

He returned to his more present concern. "What's become of that young fellow that used to hang around?"

"Mr. Parrish," supplied Nona.

"Yes, Parrish," Abe said. "Where is he, now?"

"Down at my office, I suppose," Morton said. "Why?"

Abe studied a Japanese dwarf fir tree, that stood in a great green tub before him. "Why, while I was here, I thought I would transact a little business. Maybe this Parrish now, could help me."

"I know he'd be glad to," Audrey told him. "He will be here to-day, some time."

Mr. Sunshine shook his head. "I won't bother him here at your house. But if I can get down to the office, I will take it up with him there."

He paused by the kitchen door. The cook, inside, was clattering with a large spoon, beating a mass of paste in a large crock.

"Breakfast is a thing I missed," he said, looking intently into the doorway.

Taking them each by the arm, she led them around the house, with Morton following after.

"I never thought to ask you—I'm so forgetful."

"My fault," observed Morton, from the rear. "I was so glad to see them I never even thought about their comfort."

Nona flashed a smile at him over her shoulder, as they went in a side door, and entered the breakfast room.

He turned to Nona. "You know, for years I had a housekeeper here, until Audrey was fifteen years old or more. When she went to boarding school, I let the housekeeper go. Since then, there isn't anybody to think of my guests' welfare except Audrey and me—and you see the way we do!"

"Don't!" begged Nona. "It was all right, really. We could have gone until luncheon—it is too bad to make this trouble."

"I was pretty hungry," remarked Mr. Sunshine.

They laughed, Mr. Sunshine joining cheerfully. "If you don't ask for what you want, how do you get it?" he inquired.

After they had breakfast, Morton asked Nona and Abe if they would like to drive around the city. Nona consented, but Mr. Sunshine said he had business to do.

"We'll take you downtown, then," Audrey proposed. "You can get off at the office, if you wish to see Mr. Parrish. Then we'll drive on."

Abe assented, and half an hour later, swung out of the machine at Morton's office. "See you later," he said, and turned into the building.

Nona reached across Morton, and squeezed Audrey's hand. "Thank you dear," she said.

Morton interposed. "What am I—a century plant?"

The two girls laughed, and the conversation drifted to other subjects.

Audrey was tired when they returned to the Morton home. The nurse had gone out—"for a breath of fresh air," the little maid explained—so Nona helped Audrey into bed.

Morton was alone downstairs, when she returned. She drew him over to the deep couch, and linking her arm in his, laid her hand upon his wrist.

"Harry, what am I going to do?" she asked him.

"For me?" she asked, as he handed it to her. He nodded.

She opened the parcel, and let it fall in her lap, her hands upraised, as she exposed a long diamond and platinum bar pin.

"My pin! How did you get it?"

Morton picked up the bit of jewelry and looked at it contemplatively. "This is the third time I've given it to you, Nona," he said. "I hope it will stay better, this time."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Second Nest

Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Cheer up! Cheer up! Cheer up!"

"Why are you always so happy, Mr. Robin?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he hopped beneath the tree, looking for an adventure.

"Is there any reason why I should not be happy?" sang the robin bird. "My wife and I have a nice nest house in this tree, and in the nest are some beautiful blue eggs. Out of the eggs, pretty soon, will come some little birds. I want them to be as happy as I am, so I keep on singing."

"You are always singing, it seems to me," went on the rabbit gentleman. "Are you never sad and unhappy? Do you never sing 'Cheer down' instead of 'Cheer up,' my friend?"

"What good would that do?" asked the feathered chap. "No one would pay any heed to me if I sang about my troubles. So I always sing about being glad and everyone listens."

"That's a good idea," said Mr. Longears with a laugh, for it made him happy just to hear the robin sing.

The bunny uncle watched Mr. and Mrs. Robin flitting about, picking up stray bits of dried grass, a loose feather from the yard where Charlie and Arabella Chick lived, or some hairs from the tail of a horse who had trotted near a bramble patch. The tail of a horse often catches on a briar bush, and hairs are pulled out, not hurting the horse at all, but making material for a soft lining in the nest of a bird.

Mrs. Robin filled her beak full of soft grass—so full that it would seem she could not fly up with it.

"Oh, the bad Tom Cat!" thought the rabbit.

But she did, and, even though her beak was full she managed to call to her husband:

"I am carrynig more to our nest than you are, Rob!"

"Oh, I haven't gathered up half I am going to carry!" said Mr. Robin, and he picked up a bit of fluffy cotton from a dried milkweed pod until his beak was so filled that he could not sing.

"I thought your nest was all finished," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "You said your wife had laid eggs in it, Mr. Robin."

"So I did," answered the bird who left the fluffy stuff for his wife to pluck about and settle in the nest. "But we always add a bit of soft lining before the little birds hatch out. That is what we are gathering stuff for now."

Uncle Wiggily watched the father and mother robin gather more soft grass and horse tail hairs, and he was thinking how jolly it would be after the little birds came out, when all of a sudden the rabbit gentleman saw a big, black, old Tom Cat sneaking through the grass toward the tree where Mr. Robin had been singing.

"Oh, the bad Tom Cat!" thought rabbit. "He is going to eat the robins' eggs, so no little birds can hatch out. Get away! Scat! Scoot! Toot!" cried the rabbit to the slinking creature. But still he crept on toward the tree and Uncle Wiggily ran so fast to drive the cat away that the bunny gentleman slipped on a wet place in the grass, near a spring, and fell down.

"Whumptiy ump!" he grunted as he tumbled down. And before he could pick himself up he saw the cat scrambling up into the tree. Then down she came again with something in her mouth.

"Oh, Mr. Robin!" called the bunny, as he at last hopped to his feet, "did the Tom Cat get your wife's eggs? I tried to drive him away, but I slipped and fell. I am so sorry!"

"Don't worry!" said Mrs. Robin, perching on a branch and laughing. "That old cat got to our first nest, but all he found to eat was a mouthful of feathers, and he'll choke on them."

"Then he didn't get your eggs?" asked the bunny.

"No!" sang Mr. Robin. "Our eggs are in a second nest we built higher up in the tree. You see," he explained, "we have raised one family of little robins already this Summer. We are now raising our second family and I told my wife we ought to have a larger nest. So we built a second one, higher up in the tree, and the Tom Cat didn't know about that."

"I'm very glad," spoke Uncle Wiggily. And he laughed to think how funny the Tom Cat looked with his mouth full of feathers instead of eggs or tender little birds. So this teaches us that it is wise sometimes for birds to have a second nest. And, if the trolley car doesn't run off the track and bump the lollypop on the nose, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the funny marbles.

Wall Street TO-DAY

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

New York, Aug. 11 (By R. P. Clark & Co.—To-day's market reflected a somewhat stronger technical situation and market leaders merely attracted an improved buying power. But an evening up process by yesterday's sellers for the decline, and while the general list showed good resisting powers the greater part of the day the buying power was still hesitant and values were but fractionally above yesterday's close. The renewal rate was easier at 4½ per cent. as compared with a ruling rate yesterday of 5 per cent. with a marked lessening in the turnover.

The car loading figures as published to-day reached a new high level for the year and this evidence of high rate of business activity throughout the country confirmed our opinion that yesterday's reaction was more or less of a technical one. Also the week's steel review carried a more confident tone as to forward business and as a whole was construed in a favorable light.

To-day's market appeared to be resting on a firmer foundation and while we expected to witness further irregularity for a day or so due to efforts in the nature of a further technical correction, we would prefer to look for buying opportunities on the set back.

New York, Aug. 11 (By B.C. Bond Corporation's Direct Wall Street Wire)—The Wall Street Journal's stock market edition this afternoon says: Stocks broke again in today's late trading after showing an improved tone in the first three or four hours.

Improvement took place in General Motors, and other industrial leaders at the start of trading, and these recoveries were sustained through the morning despite professional efforts to force resumption of the downward movement. However, Tuesday's heavy calling of loans was followed by further withdrawals aggregating about $15,000,000, and the selling movement was renewed in the afternoon.

Steel common broke badly, dropping substantially below the point of resistance established on Tuesday's decline. General Motors, and other industrial leaders also reached new lows on the movement and the whole market was under severe pressure at the close.

The steel news continued to depict a prosperous condition in that industry. The unusually high rate of operations, specifications and new bookings that were apparent throughout July have continued into August, and indications point to a maintenance of high activity well into the Fall.

Opinion is growing among steel interests that 1926 will exceed 1925 as a steel year. "Chicago steel producers estimate that new sale specifications and shipments of finished steel products from mills in that district, in the seven months ended with July, all averaged about 12 per cent above those of the corresponding period of 1925," Iron Age asserted. "Buying of sheets shows a substantial gain, some important producers having the largest week's business of the year, with one exception."

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent compared with yesterday's ruling rate of 5 per cent. Although the greater part of the blame for Tuesday's reaction was laid at the door of the $86,000,000 increase in brokerage loans for the week ended August 4, analysis of the figures showed that total speculative borrowings were still $500,000,000 below the peak reached earlier in the year.

The gain since May has amounted to less than $290,000, notwithstanding the fact that stocks have not only made up in that time the entire loss from the February high, but have climbed to fresh record levels for the year, and to new high ground since 1913 for the rails. This has caused the trading fraternity to view the recent loan expansion in a calmer mood, and indications of a strengthened price tendency were obvious throughout the list during the first hour.

United States Industrial Alcohol was a special feature, opening at 61½ and rising to 67, reflecting improved outlook in the company's affairs.

Recently acquired distillery at Newark is expected to give U.S. Industrial not only a strategic hold over competitors, but is counted on to effect material saving in transportation and warehouse costs. These economies, estimated to approximate two cents a gallon on alcohol distribution in this territory, should be mirrowed in improved earnings. With approach of the buying season for anti-freezing solution in sight, higher prices for alcohol are looked for.

McLeod No. 2 was opened yesterday but the well did not clear itself. Work with the spudding tools has, however brought back a portion of the gas flow that was shut off. The Vulcan crew last night were fishing again. The new socket had grappled the string of drilling tools in the hole but at the time of report had not budged them.

SUGAR

New York, Aug. 11—The raw sugar market was easy to-day. No sales were reported. Prices were unchanged at 4.27 duty paid with offerings at that level. No changes were reported in refined prices which ranged from 5.70 to 5.80 for fine granulated, and while withdrawals continued of liberal proportions, new business was considerably less active.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Winnipeg, Aug. 11.—Heavy selling pressure, following a strong opening, sent grain prices downward here to-day, the market running into "stop-loss" orders late in the session. At the extreme dip, October wheat dropped 4⅝ cents below the opening high mark. Wheat closed weak, 2¼ to 2⅝ cents lower, with October at 139⅞, December at 138⅛ and May at 143. At the opening there was good outside buying and short covering, based on the government crop report, but local traders discounted the new estimates and the selling pressure quickly developed. No export business was reported to-day.

Early gains in the coarse grain markets were quickly lost when traders followed the action of wheat. Oats and barley lost fractionally, but rye and flax declined 2½ to 2¾. Trade was light.

Dullness is still the prevailing future of the local cash wheat market. Cash coarse grains were dull.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Winnipeg, Aug. 11 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wheat: A rush of buying orders at opening this morning, largely outside business and short covering based on the Canadian Government report, gave this market a strong start with prices from 1-2 cent to 7-8 cent above the previous close. The opening bulge, however, was only momentary, the market meeting heavy selling pressure from the pool, and other strong interests, and prices eased off quickly but held firm at around yesterday's close. Renewed pressure developed and the market ran into stop-loss orders from early buyers and prices broke drastically, and on the extreme dip the October reached 4 5-8 below the opening high mark, and finally closed 2 5-8 cents down for the day, with December and May fractionally firmer.

There appeared to be little to hold the market up, buying power being almost nil, after the early orders were filled, there being no export business and a very indifferent demand for cash wheat. Combined with these factors the American markets were very weak, Chicago breaking 3 1-2 cents, the U.S. Government report being construed as bearish. As to the Canadian Government report the general opinion appears to be that it was more or less bearish and from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels too low and little attention was paid to it by the trade as was evidenced by the class of selling.

The weather continues favorable for harvest and wheat cutting is becoming more general every day, the weather being mostly fine and tempeartures cool. Taken as a whole, the wheat crop of North America can safely be figured that in the aggregate it will be considerably larger than last year when it totaled 1,089,000,000 bushels. We look for lower levels, and advise a selling position on all bulges.

Coarse grains: Oats and barley opened about half cent higher, and rye one cent up, largely in sympathy with the strength in wheat and the bullish crop report, but the early gains were not held and final figures for oats and barley were about 3-4 cent lower and rye 3 1-8 cents down. Trade was light, demand poor, the market sinking under light pressure.

Flax: This market was weak throughout with prices at one time 2 3-4 cents down, but final figures were only 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 cents lower.

Winnipeg, Aug. 11 (By B.C. Bond Corporation's direct pit wire)—The much waited for American crop report is decided bearish. Offsetting this were the Canadian crop figures which were construed as bullish. The firm tone to the early Liverpool cables caused some apprehension among shorts who covered freely at the opening. Many of the better informed members of the trade believe that the Canadian Government crop figures are considerably low and decided weakness developed in both markets.

There was very little support in evidence on scale down.

Millers continue to report an excellent flour business but trade in wheat for export was very limited and the foreigners continue to buy from hand-to-mouth.

Advices from the European countries indicate that the French crop is turning out better than expected while other countries are more or less unchanged from last year.

Cash premiums were unchanged but believe holders of cash wheat would be well advised to dispose of their cash and replace with October wheat if they are of the opinion that market will be better in the future.

There was considerable liquidation in oats, barley and rye, the flax, however, met with big buying orders on the scale down and considerable amount of cash seed was bought by American crushers.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Aug. 11 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wheat: Following an irregular bulge near the opening wheat sold off sharply while the demand both here and at Winnipeg was disappointingly slow. The action of the Winnipeg market was a disappointment to the local bulls, who looked for help in that quarter instead of the reverse. Winnipeg advices indicated that the trade did not view the Government estimate of 296,000,000 with much favor, the opinion proving that the Government had been too pessimistic. While the Canadian crop indicated offsets the increase in our total yield to a large extent, the fact remains that we have a big crop with a large surplus probably 200,000,000 bushels to export.

In the long run we have little doubt but what this surplus will be easily placed, but in the meantime the bulls are handicapped largely by heavy receipts and accumulating stocks. The cash demand to-day was slow both export and domestic, and except for the choicest wheat prices were lower here and at outside markets. Wheat is in new low ground for this downturn, and it remains to be seen how broad the demand is at the decline. That a liberal amount of wheat has been sold for export is shown by the charters made for 660,000 bushels to Montreal and 320,000 bushels to Buffalo today. Would not care to press the decline, and believe that the break in reality puts wheat on a better technical basis.

Corn: Profit taking which was partly incited by the weakness in wheat and partly by rains in the western part of the belt, caused a sharp reaction in corn after a big bulge to new high for the December with May early. General news was considered still bullish, but the market has had a big advance, and a reaction was due. The Kansas state report was very bullish. On declines from the closing prices tonight believe market will meet good commission house buying.

Oats: Had a heavy tone all day. Receipts are increasing moderately, and there is little disposition to buy while movement is on. Cash demand was indifferent with sales of 74,000 bushels. The general situation suggests caution in selling except on rallies, but there is nothing to suggest any immediate prompt upward movement.

Rye: Heavy, but did not break as much as wheat. Commission houses were fair buyers on the decline. Market needs stimulus of a better export demand, but on the declines look for good buying.

Chicago, Aug. 11 (By B.C. Bond Corporation's Direct Pit Wire)—Wheat was unsettled early but turned weak later on general selling. Local sentiment was bearish on the way down and many of the locals sold out on the break, while support came largely from holders of bids and from shorts. There was selling of December and buying of May by spreaders which has been on for several days.

Winnipeg messages indicated that the Canadian trade regarded the official estimates on the three provinces as considerably too low. Export demand at the seaboard was slow.

Broomhall estimates exportable surplus of the world at 768,000,000 bushels, against 752,000,000 last year, while import requirements are 704,000,000 bushels against 602,000,000 last year.

Corn was higher early, with December and May in new ground for season but heavy profit-taking and the weakness in wheat caused a reaction to below yesterday's finish. Government crop report construed as bullish and sentiment was inclined to favor side early.

There was buying of September and selling of December to close spreads.

OTTAWA CROP DATA SHOWS ANTICIPATED DECREASE IN WHEAT

Second Preliminary Estimate Gives 316,960,000 as Canada's Fall Yield

Final Estimate Made by the Dominion Bureau Last Year Was 411,375,700 Bushels

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—In the second preliminary estimates of Fall wheat the Dominion Bureau of Statistics places Canada's yield this year at 316,960,000 bushels. This is a drop of 31,666,000 from the first preliminary estimate given by the bureau, which was 348,626,000 bushels. The final estimate given by the bureau for last year was considerably higher, at 411,375,700 bushels.

A yield of 408,908,000 bushels of oats, as compared with 513,384,000 last year, is forecast.

Flax—6,437,000 (9,297,100.)
Peas—3,141,700 (3,410,700.)
Beans—1,205,000 (1,500,700.)
Buckwheat—9,782,000 (10,448,800.)
Mixed grains—31,152,000 (34,301,000).
Corn for husking—9,183,000 (10,564,000.)
Potatoes—43,281,000 cwt. (42,379,000 cwt.)
Turnips, etc.—34,129,000 cwt. (36,868,000 cwt.)
Fodder Corn—4,523,800 tons (5,428,700 tons.)
Sugar beets—367,000 tons (458,200 tons.)

The indicated average yields in bushels per acre for these crops are: The averages for 1925 and for the ten-year period 1916-25 being given within brackets:

Barley 23 (27.6, 25.)
Rye—16.5 (16.1, 15.6.)
Flax—7.7 (8.2, 8.2.)
Peas—16.8 (18.6, 16.8.)
Beans—15.1 (18.4, 16.1.)
Buckwheat—20.8 (22.5, 22.)
Mixed grains—34.7 (38.6, 34.6.)
Corn for husking—41.6 (44.2, 46.4)
Potatoes—79.3 cwt. (77.6, 83.2.)
Turnips, etc.—169.1 cwt. (180.4, 175.5.)
Fodder corn—7.20 tons (8.47, 8.82.)
Sugar beets—8.75 tons (10.55, 9.67.)

This forecast of yields is subject to change due, firstly, any revisions of any areas sown and secondly to effects of the season as between July 31 and the time of harvest.

AVERAGE FALL YIELD

The average yield per acre of Fall wheat in Canada is estimated at 22 bushels per acre, against 30 bushels last year, and with 23.8 bushels the decennial average. On the harvested area of 733,400 acres, the total yield is 16,122,000 bushels as compared with 23,779,700 bushels from 793,819 acres last year.

In Ontario the preliminary estimate for this year is 15,343,000 bushels from 697,400 acres against 22,764,700 bushels from 747,101 acres last year the average yield per acre being 22 bushels, against 30.5 bushels last year and 24 bushels the ten-year average.

In Alberta the yield is estimated at 374,000 bushels from 20,000 acres against 676,000 bushels from 32,300 acres last year; the average yield per acre is 18.7 bushels against 20.3 bushels last year and 19.9 bushels the ten-year average.

For British Columbia the yield is 405,000 bushels from 16,000 acres as against 359,000 bushels from 14,418 acres last year. The average yield per acre is 25.1 bushels against 24.9 bushels last year and 24.8 bushels ten-year average.

RYE AVERAGE

The ten year average 24.8 bushels.

The total yield of Fall rye for Canada is 9,497,000 bushels from 566,857 acres as compared with exactly the same yield from 604,103 acres last year. The average yield per acre is 16.8 bushels as against 15.7 bushels last year. Hay and clover gave a total yield of 12,786,000 tons from 10,123,000 acres as against 16,141,200 tons from 10,097,042 acres last year.

For all Canada the condition of the principal field crops in percentages of the ten-year average is as follows, the condition for June 30, 1926, and for July 31, 1925, being given within brackets:

Spring wheat, 92 (102-109); oats, 91 (99-95); barley, 93 (98-93); Spring rye, 91 (98-101); peas, 98 (96-100); beans, 97 (94-96); buckwheat, 95 (98-98); mixed grains, 99 (97-103); flax seed, 91 (96-91); corn for husking, 89 (96-95); potatoes, 97 (97-96); turnips, etc., 96 (95-99); fodder corn, 89 (1-94); sugar beets, 94 (97-98).

Atlantic provinces: The season is late and the Summer so far has been cool, but crops generally reported good growing weather and crops prospects favorable.

Quebec: The season is very late everywhere. In the eastern townships rain is badly wanted. In the counties around Montreal, grain crops are fair. Corn is poor, and hay, though good in quality, does not equal the yield of 1925.

Ontario: All crops late, but with the recent heat and rain rapid growth has been made. At the end of July all crops reported somewhat below average, especially corn. Hay and clover has given a yield much below the average.

Manitoba: Hot and dry weather during the last ten days of July has materially reduced the prospects for good yields of wheat. The grain crops have ripened fast and cutting will be early. In spite of the heat and drought, many correspondents report prospects fair, good or excellent. Hay crops very light.

Saskatchewan: Hot, dry weather during July has adversely affected prospects. Late sown crops and crops on stubble and light land have suffered.

Crops on Summer fallow and heavy land have withstood the heat and drought fairly well. The districts most seriously affected are in central and west central Saskatchewan. Rain was badly needed at the end of the month.

Alberta: Heat and drought during July have reduced the condition of the crops all over the province and the prospects are not nearly so favorable as they were a month ago. To this general rule there are, however, exceptions, where correspondents report plenty of moisture and good or excellent crops. This is especially the case in southwestern Alberta.

Disease May Lack Pain

By DR. HUGH S. CUMMING

The degree of pain experienced does not indicate the extent of the bodily injury or derangement from which one may be suffering.

There are many dangerous conditions in which pain is either entirely absent or present to such an insignificant extent as to be entirely misleading.

Thus, there are sometimes lightning-like attacks of appendicitis devoid of pain, increased temperature or elevated pulse rate, though this is not the rule. Tuberculosis is frequently without pain. The pain signal may be lacking in a very malignant case of diphtheria.

The internal organs such as the stomach, heart and kidneys are poorly equipped for conveying pain signals. Therefore in serious derangements of these organs pain is often lacking.

Thus it will be seen that pain while valuable as a signal when it is present, may be entirely lacking in some very serious affections. However, it should be remembered that many diseases begin with pain or have pain as a prominent symptom at some time during their course.

DANGER SIGNAL

Pain is often borne patiently in the hope of early amelioration. Instead of heeding the danger signal and seeking relief at the hands of a competent physician, the individual continues to suffer.

In the meantime, the disease, comparable to a slow-burning fire, makes headway and becomes more difficult to treat successfully. Then, too, many confuse pain with disease, thinking that they are well as soon as pain is relieved. This however, may be a dangerous fallcy, especially since it is known that some of the more serious diseases are not accompanied by pain.

Pain is a device of nature which serves as a signal or warning of a condition requiring attention. A periodical physical examination is an efficient means of discovering the presence of those diseases which are not heralded by pain.

HOROSCOPE

"The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel"

(Copyright)

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 11, 1926

Astrologers read this as rather an unimportant day in planetary direction. It is a time for gathering up loose ends in business and preparing for big coups.

Neptune is in a place believed to be most auspicious for many interests for there should be wise judgment and far vision on business problems.

Much travel by land as well as sea will mark the Autumn season when there will be an extraordinary movement of population, it is foretold.

This is not an auspicious day for financial transactions and may be marked by an international misunderstanding.

Extravagance and unwise spending may be widespread as the Summer closes and many forms of robbery will be common.

Forgeries may increase, for there will be crimes transacted in writing, the seers forecast.

Saturn is in an aspect affecting the Central States in which much fraud will be uncovered.

While there may be apparently a rule of evil, the reverse is true, according to astrologers who read abundant promise for the rising generation which is to excel all that have preceded it in mentality and big achievements.

Russia is to become aggressive and warning is given that her secret machinations may bring about results in more than one nation where evil propaganda has been disseminated.

The United States is to come under a sway that apparently encourages secret and mysterious plots in which the Soviet government is interested. This prophecy was made months ago and now appears to be near realization.

For the Autumn the stars portend an infectious epidemic which will sweep India, Russia and certain Eastern States, astrologers predict.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a peaceful year in which many friends will have a pleasant part.

Children born on this day probably will be gentle and kindly in nature. These subjects of Leo usually like to devote themselves to the patient service of others.

To sell the now-superfluous office or home furniture—is work of the want ads.

HORSE RACING

Calgary, Aug. 11—Herod's Pride, five-year-old grey mare owned by Fred Johnston, Calgary, carried off the major end of the purse in the Palliser Hotel Handicap, outstanding feature event yesterday. It was a mile event and Herod's Pride led from start to finish in a new track record of 1.42, beating the mark of 1.42 3-5 set by Royal Oak on June 2.

First race, purse $400, three-year-olds up, six furlongs—Qynnewood, $12.30, $5.30, $3.55; Different Eyes, $4.20, $2.80; Bob Link, $2.75. Time, 1.16.

Second race, $400, three-year-olds and up, six furlongs—Zapatos, $9.00, $5.20, $3.25; Calgary Lad, $3.95, $2.85; Au Revoir, $2.45. Time, 1.16 2-5.

Third race—$400, Breeders' Handicap, for two-year-olds; five furlongs—Waikiki, $5.25, $3.60, $2.85; Jolashot, $4.40, $3.75; Tetroy, $7.90. Time 1.03.

Fourth race, $400, three-year-olds and up, siven furlongs—Wee Todler, $5.80, $2.90, $2.95; Rose Roberts, $3.05, $2.75; Star Purse, $7.15. Time 1.29.

Fifth race, $500, Palliser Hotel Handicap, three-year-olds, mile—Herod's Pride, $4.15, $2.55, $2.60; Hyanpom, $2.75, $3.25; Royal Oak, $3.75. Time 1.42.

Sixth race, $400, three-year-olds and up, mile and sixteenth—Carpathian, $4.80, $3.60, $2.55; George James, $17.70, $6.10; Mannikin II., $2.70. Time, 1.49 1-5.

Seventh race, $400, three-year-olds up, mile and a sixteenth—Tugs, $5.50, $3.15, $2.40; Al Wick, $3.20, $2.45; Lawrence Manning, $2.30. Time 1.51.

New York, Aug. 11.—Rapture ran the mile and one quarter in 2.06 to win the Alabama Stakes at Saratoga yesterday from Black Maria and Ruthenia. The Harry Payne Whitney entry paid 12 to 1, and earned $9,275. Edna Gavell, the favorite, made a disappointing showing.

Thistlewood took the fourth race at Lincoln Fields, running the six furlongs in 1.13 3-5. The World beat Chink III for the place.

Saratoga Springs, N.Y., Aug. 11.—Fifty yearlings, the property of Admiral C. T. Grayson, Samuel Ross, the Keeneland stud, Keen and Rouse, Thomas J. Regan and various others have been sold at the Fassig Tipton sales paddock.

A handsome chestnut colt, by Man o'War, out of Jean Bowdre, belonging to the Keeneland stud of Lexington, Ky., brought the top price. He was sold to the Greentree Stable for $25,000.

Goshen, N.Y., Aug. 11.—Thompson Dillon, of the Good Time stables, won first money in the Ladies' Day purse of $5,000 by taking the 2.09 class trot in straight heats. The event featured the opening of a three-day Grand Circuit programme.

Holly Rood water, driven by Loomis, took the last two heats of the 2.10 pace, four being necessary for decision. This also carried a purse of $5,000.

Thunderstorm Again Halts Game in Which Australians Appear

London, Aug. 11 (Canadian Press Cable).—The Australian cricket team began a two-day match at Lords against a public school fifteen. Collins, the Australian captain, won the toss and decided to put his team in first.

The game had not proceeded very far when a thunderstorm came up and it was decided to take the luncheon interval. At the time the Australians had scored 80 for the loss of the wickets of Collins and Taylor.

It was decided by the two captains not to follow the usual custom whereby only eleven of the public schools team took the field and as a consequence the whole fifteen were fielded.

RAIN HALTS TENNIS

Edmonton, Aug. 11—A heavy downpour of rain chased the players from the courts at the Western Canada Hard Courts Tennis Tournament at 5 o'clock on Tuesday and prevented the latter part of the day's draws form being played, but the weather showed every indication of clearing up so that the programme could be continued on Wednesday.

There were no upsets of any great importance during the day with the exception of the defeat of Mrs. Rogers by Mrs. Morgan. Both are Edmonton players.

FLOWERS WINS BOUT

DONT HURRY COOKING

Whenever you are cooking custards or any mixtures in which eggs are the main ingredient, a low temperature is most satisfactory.

English Cricket

London, Aug. 11 (Canadian Press Cable)—Rain interfered yesterday with the playing of many of the county cricket matches, and in some cases the matches had to be abandoned. The results.

Two Toronto Boys in Western Junior Golf

Chicago, Aug. 11—Thirty-two golfers, including Donald and Alex Carrick of Toronto, survivors of a field of more than 250, were paired in the first rounds of championship matches in the Western Junior Golf Tournament at the Edgewater Golf Club today.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—The Carrick Brothers of Scarboro, Toronto, broke even in the first round of the Western Junior Golf Championships. Alex defeated H. Juldelson of Chicago, 5 and 4, and Donald, former Canadian amateur champion, was eliminated by Sam Alpert, in a hard-fought match which ended on the nineteenth green.

AIRMAN LOST LIFE

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 11. — One man was fatally injured and another seriously injured in an aeroplane crash last night at Richards Field. Harold Fults, nineteen, Aiton, Kansas, a student flier, died from injuries received when the plane in which he was riding with Russell Dick, twenty-three, a Kansas City pilot, went into a series of spins and fell to the ground when they were "stunting" over the field.

JURY ARRIVES AT MURDER AND SUICIDE VERDICT

Inquest Held Yesterday Into Deaths of Gerald and Elsa Haddon

That Gerald P. Haddon was temporarily insane when he murdered his wife and took his own life some time about the hour of dawn on Sunday morning, was the purport of the verdict of the coroner's jury which sat yesterday afternoon and heard evidence dealing with the most tragic case in the annals of the district. Considering first of all the case of the wife, Mrs. Elsa Claire Haddon, Coroner E. C. Hart received a verdict of murder at the hands of her husband after the jury had deliberated only a few minutes. In the second case, that of the husband himself, the verdict of suicide while mentally deranged was arrived at without delay.

The first jury sat at 2.30 o'clock and were sworn by 2.35 p.m. The second jury was sworn at 4.15 o'clock and the verdict was handed down in the last case a few minutes after five last evening.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES

Both in the case of Mrs. Haddon and her husband, Dr. William Walker testified that the bodies, when found and examined by himself and police, had been lifeless for over twelve hours. There was difficulty in fixing the time of the slaying at first, but the fact that a light had been seen in the Haddon house until daybreak on Sunday indicated that Haddon, at least, had lived until early morning, although he may have slain his wife in the hours of darkness.

Dr. Walker explained the technical reasons of death in both instances. He gave the jury the results of the postmortem examination in detail. There was no evidence in the case of the woman that the discharge of the rifle had been at close range. There were powder marks neither upon her skin nor her silk nightgown. This evidence, as the coroner pointed out, pointed to murder, although the whole case was entirely circumstantial.

HEARD THE SHOTS

James Delves, a neighbor, was awakened in the night by a sound which he afterwards realized were the shots fired at Mrs. Haddon, the shots that startled her from her sleep and sent her back again into that unending slumber, mangled and horrible. He heard these shots, he said, but went to sleep again. It was he who finally discovered Haddon's body late Sunday afternoon when he went to feed his neighbor's dog, believing both Haddon and his wife either to have left their house or that the former was suffering from headache, as he frequently did.

When Delves pushed open the basement door he saw a pair of pyjama-clad legs protruding from the inner darkness. He rushed for the police without further investigating the matter.

INVESTIGATED SCENE

Chief of Police John Syme of Oak Bay, who conducted the investigation of the tragic affair, told the story of the discovery of the dead man and woman, of the surroundings as they lay where they had fallen, in a welter of blood and of the finding of the man's bed upstairs, which appeared to have been occupied at one time, although his clothing was in his wife's boudoir. There was a book, "Beau Sabreur," a tale of the northern African peoples and the Chasseurs d'Afrique, gripping in its imaginative appeal, open by the bedside in the man's room. Also a loaded shotgun had stood beside the bed.

Summing up, Coroner Hart said that there was little to cause the jury a moment's hesitation, but reminded them that they must be well satisfied before bringing in a verdict.

PATHETIC LETTERS

In the second inquest, when Edward Winslow was called, was for the first time sounded the note of rending pathos that strikes through the whole Haddon affair. Letters left by the unfortunate man, telling of his fears for his sanity and of his anticipated suicide, appealed to friends for the safe keeping of his wife and child. Haddon, throughout his life, had been a devoted husband and a tender father. Financial worries and his sister's ill-health were responsible for his undoing, the letters signified.

A lengthy statement of assets showed that Haddon was not in financial straits, but that his pecuniary difficulties were largely imaginary. He rather feared than experienced them. A second letter, written on July 26, when he was at Lillooet, expressed the fear that he might be losing his reason.

Constable Paterson's plans and drawings of the house gave the jurles a clearer conception of the case.

BEJ FOR SOUR STOMACH

Religious Riots in Mexico

Above are shown barefooted pilgrims advancing on their knees to the famous shrine of Our Lady of Gaudalupe, near Mexico City. The procession gives an idea of the intense religious devotion of the masses of Mexicans, which presages a bitter struggle. Wire reports tell of bloodshed near this shrine.

Below is the resplendent interior of the church that houses the shrine. Services here have ceased and the government has thrown soldiers about it as part of the nationalization programme.

POISON LIQUOR IS ANALYZED

Washington, Aug. 11.—The liquor which killed more than a score of persons in the Buffalo region recently, was made of methyl, or wood alcohol, government chemists yesterday reported to J. M. Doran, chief of the chemical division of the prohibition unit.

Doran described this product as deadly poison. It is used in the manufacture of dyes and disinfectants, he said, and the name has been changed by the trade to "methanol" in an attempt to prevent its use as a beverage.

SUICIDE VERDICT

Kemptville, Ont., Aug. 11.—Beatrice Nash, Barnardo Home girl, whose death officials of the home are investigating, came to her death by drowning while temporarily insane, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. Her body was found in the Rideau River several hours after she had had a quarrel with her employer, H. Dickinson. A note directed searchers to the scene of the tragedy.

DIVORCE GRANTED

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Mary Wrenn Garland yesterday was granted an unconditional divorce from Charles Garland, head of the "April Farm" Colony at Allentown, Pa. She was given the custody of three children. Bettina Hovey, who lived at the farm, was named as co-respondent.

IN THE MIDST OF FLORIDA HURRICANE

Hurricane gales were lashing the photographer a s well as the palm trees when this picture of Miami's recent tropical storm was made. The blast drove huge waves over the Venetian Causeway between Miami and Miami Beach, making passage impossible.

ARION CLUB HEARD IN OPEN AIR CONCERT

Victorian Order of Nurses Benefit; Delightful Programme Presented

Vocal efforts of a distinguished musical organization were heard to advantage in Parliament Square last night when the Arion Club gave its annual Summer open-air concert on the steps of the Government Buildings.

The concert was heard by a large and most appreciative audience. The event has become an eleemosynary gift of institution, as the proceeds invariably reach some local worthy and timely object. On this occasion the collection ($208) was donated to the Victorian Order of Nurses. The proceedings continued for over an hour and proved a thoroughly delightful affair, those present evidently enjoying the choir's singing and selections to the utmost degree.

Among the announced numbers given in the well-selected programme were "Rolling Down to Rio," "The Three Chafers," these two numbers proving such prime favorites that their repetition was demanded; "Forsaken," the sea song "A Wet Sheet and a Flowing Sea," and "If I But Knew." Thomas Kelway and George Guy, leading tenors of the club, gave two solos in able and delightful manner. These were "Come Into the Garden Maude" by the former, who in response to the enthusiastic request gave "Mother o' Mine," to the piano accompaniment of Mrs. Clifford Warn, acting as accompanist throughout in her usual admirable manner; while the latter, to the hummed accompaniment by the choir, rendered "Image of the Rose," he, too, having to repeat a verse of this beautiful song.

BLOOD PRESSURE DRAWS BIG CROWD TO METROPOLITAN

"High Blood Pressure and Hardened Arteries" drew a large audience at the Metropolitan Church last night. "Indigestion, Torpid Liver and Fatigue" will be the subject of the lecture tonight by Dr. J. C. Elliott. "Power of Foods Over Stomach, Nerves, heart and Brain" will be the subject Thursday at 2.30 o'clock. The lectures will continue over Sunday, and Dr. Elliott will speak Sunday night on "The Bible as the World's Greatest Health Book."

Admission is free and the public is invited to all lectures. A question box will be opened at the afternoon lecture.

"The torpid liver is the chief cause of auto-intoxication and the fatigue poisoning of the body. The liver is the greatest manufacturing plant in the world for its size. When the liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the whole body is poisoned by the accumulated poisons that should have been eliminated by the activity of the liver.

"Fatigue is largely the product of stomach trouble, and the torpid liver. When stomach and liver are active, the poisons are eliminated from the system, and the natural energies and vigor of life are manifest. The inactive stomach and liver produces weakness, langor and fatigue, and lays the foundation for many of the diseases of the body. Nervous and sick headache, auto-intoxication, shattered nerves and indigestion are all the result.

"Indigestion is one of the danger diseases of the body. It lays the foundation for many of the serious diseases. It destroys the power of the body to kill the harmful disease germs, and renders it susceptible to all the assaults of disease. Generous exercise and the use of the laxative food are the best prevention against indigestion."

Philip Goodwin Is in California Now For Trial

Santa Ana, Cal., Aug. 11—The defence of Rev. Philip Goodwin, who was brought here from New York, where he was arrested on a murder charge following the death of J. J. Patterson, a Los Angeles broker, will centre about the acts of Abe Dexey, also sought in connection with the Patterson slaying, Goodwin says. The officer who brought Goodwin from New York said the minister had told him he had been in possession of $19,000 in oil bonds, the property of Patterson, and that he had made a profit of $400 on the sale of the securities. He denied knowledge of Dewey's whereabouts.

Broken Skin Lets infection in

Cuts, scratches and blisters, painful in themselves, are most dangerous because they present an opening for infection. Don't take chances—use Absorbine Jr.

THE ANTISEPTIC LINIMENT

For sprains and bruises—a small quantity of ABSORBINE JR. rubbed in will allay the pain and reduce the swelling quickly and permanently.

Excellent also for insect bites, burns, tired stiff muscles and sore feet. It is not greasy—will not stain the clothing.

Constructive Psychology Applied

Contributed

To know what we want, then get a perfect picture in our mind, to be able to see it in detail, is the beginning of the consciousness of our power.

We are building our lives each moment, we cannot help doing so. Thoughts are the moulders of our lives but most people are like the man trying to build a home without a plan, having no blue-print to go by, he may work ever so hard, spend time, labor and money, and having nothing worth while, just because he did not see the picture in his mind, or get someone else, an architect to picture it for him. The clearer we can see the picture, the more certain we may be of our power to produce it. We must, however, be sure we are not just merely day dreaming, there is a world of difference between visualization and phantasy. This is one point we must take very clearly. Life has no bargains; we pay full price for all we get and true visualization means work and faith, not the blind faith without work—that is dead, but the beautiful creative faith that removes mountains, and bids them be cast into the sea. "Without vision the people perish," is so true.

To have a clean cut picture of what we want and to have faith in its realization is to apply constructive psychology.

But what is faith? It is the subtle constructive something that a man feels, he cannot express it in mere words, yet he knows when he has faith, true faith. It is true knowledge in the reality of something we have not as yet seen. Whilst not yet in the visible is real.

St. Paul gives it very beautifully—he says:

As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.

Know what you want, visualize it, see it in a picture clearly and then go after it in faith, believing.
